Azaan row raises political decibel levels in K'taka

Court orders will be implemented by taking everyone into confidence, says Bommai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

WITH right wing organisations demanding that the state government regulate the decibel levels of loudspeakers at mosques, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday said they will implement court orders by taking everyone into confidence, and not by force.

He stressed that his government will maintain law and order and not allow any organisations or groups to take law into their own hands.

After the hijab row and a campaign against halal meat, right-wing organisations in the state have set their eyes on the issue of loudspeakers used for Azaan at mosques.

Sri Ram Sena Convener Pramod Muthalik told The New Indian Express that they will give a "final warning" to deputy commissioners across the state on April 13 asking them to enforce court orders, and if the authorities fail to act, they will use speakers at temples and mutts for playing bhajans, songs and prayers from 5 am.

"We are not against Muslims offering prayers, but many are violating court orders by using loudspeakers at mosques from 5 am onwards, using them in silent zones and doing so without permission," he said, adding that they had given memorandums to officials around six months ago, but no action was taken.

Before leaving for New Delhi, Bommai said many issues being raised now are about orders (pertaining to loudspeakers) issued during past governments. No new orders have been issued now, he added.

On July 18, 2005, the Supreme Court had ruled, "Freedom from noise pollution is a part of the right to life under Article 21 of the Constitution. Noise interferes with the fundamental right of the citizens to live in peace and to protect themselves against forced audiences. As between 10 pm and 6 am which is the time for people to sleep and have peace, no noise pollution can be permitted," and issued orders that the Noise Pollution (Regulation and Control) Rules, 2000 should be strictly implemented.

THE humongous crisis staring the Sri Lankan government in the face deepened further on Tuesday with the newly appointed finance minister throwing up his hands and resigning within a day, and the ruling Sri Lanka Podujana Peramuna coalition losing majority in Parliament following a string of defections and multiple allies withdrawing support.

Amid calls from protestors on the streets and the Opposition for President Gotabaya Rajapaksa's resignation, he refused to quit saying he would hand over power to whoever could prove majority in Parliament. Thus far, the ruling coalition had 157 seats in the Lower House of 225. On Tuesday, a group of about 50 supporting the government decided to function as an independent group, leaving the government at least five short of majority.

Daunted by the mess he was inheriting, finance minister Ali Sabry sent in his resignation letter to the President while pointing out that unconventional steps were needed to save the economy.

Sri Lankans protest demanding Gotabaya Rajapaksa's resignation, in Colombo | AP

The Catholic clergy and nuns. led by Sri Lanka's Cardinal Malcolm Ranjith, hit the streets amplifying the protests. "This is a valuable country with intelligent people. But our intelligence, the people's intelligence, has been insulted by corruption. Therefore now we call out... please now listen to the cry of the people and step down," Ranjith said.

Unprecedented shortages of food and fuel coupled with runaway inflation and blackouts have inflicted the most painful blow to the country since independence in 1948. Most demonstrations against the Rajapajsas have been peaceful so far.

The Opposition has already rejected Gotabaya's's call to join a unity administration led by him and his elder brother, Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa. Nimal Lanza, a former minister in the Rajapaksa's administration, said the ruling party no longer had a mandate to govern.

At a four-day session of Parliament that began on Tuesday, Opposition members objected to conducting the proceedings without relevant cabinet ministers. Main Opposition leader Sajith Premadasa urged Gotabaya to pay heed to the protesters and resign.

...(please) make suitable interim arrangement to navigate the unprecedented crisis fresh and proactive, and unconventional steps needs to be taken including the appointment of a new finance minister - Finance minister Ali Sabry in his resignation letter

BSY approaches SC for relief in land graft case

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

Former chief minister and senior BJP leader BS Yediyurappa is seeking an urgent hearing in the Supreme Court to stay the summons issued to him by the trial court in Bengaluru in the Bellandur denotification case.

Yediyurappa, who is accused number 2 in the case, has been asked by the trial court to appear before it on April 19. He has been charged with Section 13 (1) criminal misconduct of the Prevention of Corruption Act along with other Sections. The complaint was filed by Vasudeva Reddy.

This case is before the special court that tries elected MPs and MLAs and is headed by Justice B Jayanta Kumar.

On Yediyurappa approaching the Supreme Court directly, legal experts said he had gone before the High Court seeking quashing of proceedings in 2019, but the plea was dismissed in 2020. High Court judge Justice Michael D'Cunha had made strong observations against the Lokayukta police in that case. Yediyurappa had then appealed before the apex court and again on Tuesday, he moved the Supreme Court against the summons.

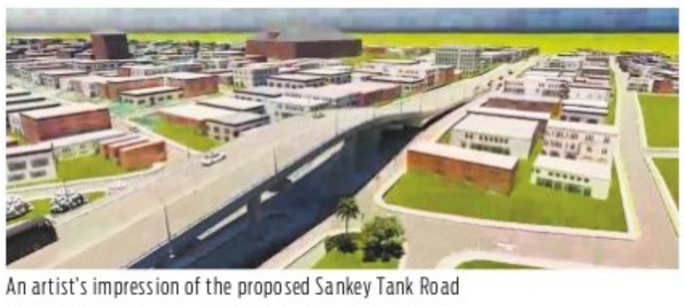
Sankey Rd to run at 2 levels if govt okays plan

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

TO ease traffic congestion on Sankey Tank road, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has proposed to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai to construct a two-lane road at the ground level below the bridge.

The BBMP engineering wing admitted that they have to acquire lands belonging to the convent school and also the government to take up the project. While they are clear that the lake land cannot be touched because of environmental reasons, they are not concerned about the loss of tree canopy on the stretch.



An artist's impression of the proposed Sankey Tank Road

A BBMP engineer told The New Indian Express, "The traffic congestion on this stretch is a major worry. We have two roads to be widened immediately – Palace Road and Sankey Road. While Palace Road is under litigation, there is no such issue here. The idea was also suggested by Malleswaram MLA and IT-BT Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan."

The existing two-lane road is 7.5 metre wide and the BBMP proposes to construct a road of same width at the ground level. "The road will be at two levels. We are looking at it as an engineering challenge as we have to tackle the slope," the engineer said.

Mobility experts, greens oppose Sankey Road plan

They want to know how many trees will be axed in total in the city

To ease traffic congestion on Sankey Road, BBMP has proposed to construct a two-lane road at the ground level below the bridge | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

AS the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) is proposing to construct a parallel road along the existing Sankey Bridge Road to decongest traffic, environmentalists are asking the government to give them a final list of how many trees will be axed in total in the city.

Urban mobility experts, Malleswaram residents and IISc professors are opposing the idea. Prof TV Ramachandra from the Centre for Ecological Sciences, IISc, said the land which the government is terming as not a lake land was actually a part of the water body. It dried up when the road was constructed. "Why is the government thinking of decongesting Bengaluru, when it cannot think of developing the outskirts? The government should first answer how many trees will be removed for this," he said.

Tree expert Vijay Nishanth said the government should make public the list of trees to be axed in total and for what.

Prof Ashish Verma, associate professor, Civil Engineering, IISc, said, "We did a study and found that reducing the traffic signal time at junctions is the solution to decongest traffic. But the government wants to construct more. This will only shift the problem and not solve the traffic menace."

Mobility experts pointed out that the traffic police and commuters should follow the Manipur model, where lane discipline is followed strictly.

Gopal Rao, a member of Malleswaram Resident Welfare Association, said a similar project was proposed earlier too, but was shelved after citizens protested against cutting of trees. But the green cover was lost even then. "The less we talk about the environment better it is, as the government is not concerned. Traffic is high, but for everything, axing trees is not a solution," he added.

'Each stretch will be a one-way'

"WE will have to acquire land measuring around 15- 25 feet from the road belonging to institutions. The tree canopy can be recreated after the road is constructed. The school is 100 feet away from the existing road," the engineer said. The proposal, presented to the government in January this year, has been pending because of the legislature session and budget. The proposal does not find place in the BBMP budget too.

"Single-lane roads are a major concern for civic agencies. We either have to widen the road or construct flyovers. Once the new Sankey Road is constructed, each stretch will be a one-way to ensure that there are no traffic jams and long waiting periods," the engineer said.

The engineers, however, were unable to answer as to why they are not talking to the traffic police to alter the traffic signal waiting period and create green corridors for quicker movement of vehicles at the junction.

HC orders joint survey of bad roads in city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Tuesday directed the Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) to conduct a joint survey of roads in all the eight zones along with agencies that are involved in road cutting to provide various services to ascertain their condition and submit a joint action plan to fill potholes and repair the damaged roads.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice SR Krishna Kumar passed the order after the BBMP counsel gave an undertaking before the court on the issue during the hearing of a PIL filed by one Vijayan Menon and three others in 2015.

During the hearing, V Srinidhi, BBMP counsel, submitted that it is impossible for the civic body to fill potholes caused by road-cutting works undertaken by various agencies.

He also submitted that the joint survey will be conducted in eight zones, if sometime is granted, involving the agency which has been entrusted with the work of filling of potholes and other agencies who are involved in road cutting.

Recording the presence of S Prabhakar, Engineer-in-Chief, BBMP, the court asked the chief engineers of all zones to actively participate in the survey and prepare the joint action plan. Granting a week's time to submit the action plan, the court said that it will come down heavily on the agencies if they are involved in road cutting without obtaining prior permission from the BBMP.

Decentralised management of bulk waste need of the hour: Palike chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BRUHAT Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Tuesday said that there is a need to have a decentralised system to rid the city of garbage menace.

He was speaking after chairing a meeting to discuss segregation and management of waste at source by bulk waste generators within BBMP limits.

Gupta said bulk waste generators and bulk waste collectors should take up the responsibility of solving the garbage menace.

"Of the 6,000 tonnes of waste generated per day, 1,500 tonnes are generated by bulk generators. The problem should be eradicated through a decentralised system of waste disposal," he said.

He said bulk waste generators must establish a waste segregation and management unit

> If there is no separate space for solid waste management, then they can engage authorised waste processing companies to transport the waste. But, everything must be in a systematic manner
> Gaurav Gupta,
> BBMP Chief Commissioner

within their area of functioning. "These include residential complexes which produce more than 100 kg of waste each day or the number of units are more than 100. Another category is the institutional bulk waste generators (government institutions, religious, educational institutions, hotels, APMC markets and yards, nurseries, parks, lodges etc) generating more than 100 kg of waste each day," he said.

Another category is commercial waste generators, including hotels and restaurants, marriage halls, malls, shopping complexes, supermarkets, clubs, auditoriums, fuel stations, and food business operators.

"If there is no separate space for solid waste management, then they can engage authorised waste processing companies to transport the waste. But, everything must be in a systematic manner," Gupta elaborated.

He added that bulk waste generators should have their own in-situ processing or composting units or shall device or install small bio-methanation plants.

06th April : Leo is my sign of the day. The constellation Leo can be identified from the shape of a lion roughly visible in its brightest stars and it has a glorious mythology. On the other hand, it looks like a gigantic question mark to me, so I wonder if Leo people's main purpose is to ask the rest of us some awkward questions?

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The Sun is now urging you to take a deeper and more thoughtful perspective on current developments. It would seem likely that before the week is out you will have decided upon a sudden change of plan. But, then, that's you all over, isn't it? You'll probably make another sudden change next week!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
There is too much at stake now for you to risk losing your head or giving up on a major objective. Press ahead with your present path and don't allow purely temporary delays to obstruct your progress. Even if you take two steps back, you'll soon be taking three steps forward.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Seeing as this is such a lively time of year, why don't you indulge your instincts and get away for a while? Even if nothing is planned, you can be sure that a change of scene will be deeply stimulating and highly enjoyable. There's still time for a sentimental journey, by the way.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You must expect to be the centre of attention over the next fortnight, not so much because of the Sun's influence in your sign as for the simple reason that partners, symbolised by the planet Uranus, are inspiring you to new and amazing heights of achievement.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
There is now nothing to hold you back. Even at work, where you might be more than usually conscious of delays and obstacles, you may get around any problem with a little imagination and sensitivity. It's all a matter of explaining your feelings with an understanding of partners' needs and desires.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
In many ways, it is possible for you to become a law unto yourself. Not a bad thing, you might think. Yet there are times when you should listen carefully to the wishes of people around you who, it must be said, are more experienced: you still have a great deal to learn!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
For the next month you must put additional effort into your professional goals, or into any activity which holds out the promise of enhanced respect and prestige in your community. Within a few days, you may be forced to depart from previous practice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You may be sure that whatever begins now will not be completed until some time next month. Certain important developments won't even come to your attention until after several days have passed, so don't judge the far-distant future by what happens today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Amongst the new developments in your life this week is an increasing desire for adventure. I would strongly advise that you set other considerations aside in order to allow time for a journey of exploration. But will you be embarking on a voyage of the body - or the spirit? This is your choice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Social success and emotional happiness are very much questions of adopting the right attitude. If you are open and ready to accept partners on their own terms, they will respond with love and generosity. A legal or bureaucratic matter may be left hanging in the air, though.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You probably feel that you're about due for some recognition for all the hours of effort you've put in, often with little or no thanks. It's about time people in general paid you more attention and took better notice of your fine qualities. You're like a delicate flower and you need to be cared for!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Believe it or not, you are still in a privileged position and will be saved from some of the troubles besetting other people. Yet now you must reflect on your long-term ambitions and ask if these are really right for you. You'll benefit from bouncing ideas off an old friend.

State ups surveillance for XE variant

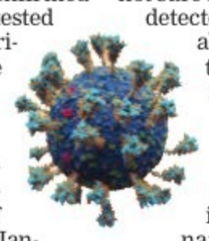
No traces in sewage study, genome sequencing; INSACOG monitoring samples

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru:

SURVEILLANCE has been intensified in Karnataka after WHO's recent report outlining findings of a potentially new variant of concern -- the XE variant, a hybrid of two Omicron strains, BA.1 and BA.2. Sewage surveillance and genome sequencing have so far not found any traces of new variants, and the dominant variant in Karnataka has been the BA.2 lineage of Omicron.

The XE variant was first detected in the UK and is estimated to spread 10 per cent more easily than BA.2, which itself was more transmissible than the original Omicron variant. In this background, and also China's finding of two novel Omicron sub-variants that have no similarity to the existing sequences, the state government has been strictly monitoring international travellers from UK and other countries showing an increase in Covid-19 cases.

Samples are being collected randomly from international travellers, and those who are symptomatic are being tested too. If they test positive, those samples are compulsorily being genome-sequenced, explained D Randeep, Commissioner, Department of Health and Family Welfare. However, he confirmed that so far, no one has tested positive for the XE variant and reports of three positive samples from the UK are awaited. "From January 2022, 71 Covid-positive travellers from UK have arrived in Karnataka. Of these cases, 57 came in January, 11 in Febraury, 3 in March and none till April 2. All of them have shown BA.2 variant of Omicron but not the XE variant," Randeep said.



However, he explained that sewage surveillance would help pick up if there are any asymptomatic patients who have caught this strain of variant, and hence, monitoring for this has been upped in the state. Meanwhile, INSACOG is also watching out for this variant, and monitoring genome samples from various states.

Dr Shahid Jameel, senior virologist and fellow at Green Templeton College, University of Oxford, UK, told TNIE, "I am not sure if any XE variant been detected in India. There are about 800 cases so far in the UK. But considering it's a mixture of BA.1 and BA.2, and almost all Indians have antibodies to SARS-CoV-2 by way of prior infection and/or vaccination, I doubt it would make any difference to India," he said. As the XE variant is a recombinant variant, Dr Jameel, who is also visiting professor at Ashoka University, said that recombinant variants are not unusual. "The key is whether it has any growth advantage over its parent strains. There isn't clear evidence on that, according to the latest UK HSA report," he explained.

WAVES AND VARIANTS

1. XE reported to be 10 times more infectious than BA.2
2. Deltacron formed by combination of Omicron and Delta
3. XE is a recombinant of two Omicron sub-variants, BA.1 and BA.2
4. Recombinant variants occur when a person becomes infected with more than one type
5. Experts believe these variants are formed by associating with other variants of SARS-CoV-2, are not very lethal and die quickly
6. WHO monitoring significant difference in transmission, severity between XE and previous variants

IMA scandal: Small investors get dues first

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Special Officer and Competent Authority of I-Monetary Advisory (IMA) Ponzi case, and other KPID cases, on Tuesday issued a detailed press note about the total claim applications received, and steps taken to settle the dues in a phased manner.

The Competent Authority claimed to have received around 69,000 claim applications for a total claim amount of Rs 2,600 crore, from depositors of IMA. In view of shortage of available assets of the IMA Group, compared to dues to be paid to depositors, the Special Court ordered settlement of dues by deducting returns on deposits already received by the depositors. Even after this method was applied, the total dues amounted to around Rs 1,260 crore, which is much higher compared to the attached assets of Rs 400 crore. In view of this, the Special Court ordered that dues of smaller investors, who had deposited up to Rs 2 lakh and whose dues are less than Rs 50,000, should be settled on priority.

On March 7, 2022, the court confirmed provisional attachment of properties in the IMA case under common orders relating to a number of clubbed cases. The order covered immovable properties totalling around Rs 105 crore, and cash/DDs in the bank totalling around Rs 23.5 crore. The Competent Authority has initiated steps for auction of immovable properties.

As on April 4, the authority released the available balance amount of Rs 13.26 crore directly into bank accounts of depositors to settle 3,400 claim applications of less than Rs 50,000 each. Earlier, the authority had released around Rs 5.5 crore to settle 3,740 claim applications, and as on date, the authority claims to have settled 6,800 claim applications, with a total release of around Rs 18.8 crore.

The Competent Authority anticipates clearance of dual attachment of the Enforcement Directorate (ED) shortly, enabling it to transfer another Rs 11.5 crore, which would settle dues of another 4,000 claim applications with dues of up to Rs 50,000.

Visceral fat dangerous, should be part of check-ups

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru:

SCREENING for visceral fat, or belly fat, should be made part of preventive check-ups, as this fat deposition is the primary reason for a range of chronic diseases like diabetes and hypertension, say doctors.

Dr Tausif Ahmed Thangalvadi, Medical Director, NURA, AI enabled imaging and expert healthcare, said, "Catching diseases early through preventive health screening is a much more effective and inexpensive solution to improve health parameters of society, compared to billions of dollars being spent to create massive healthcare infrastructure geared for treatment, when diseases have progressed to advanced stages undetected."

Visceral fat is often referred to as "hidden fat" because it's not always visible. It wraps around your vital organs and can cause serious health issues. Dr Ramya KN, nutritionist at NutriCare, says, "Visceral fat is dangerous because it directly impacts the health and function of your organs. While a normal amount of fat is needed to protect your organs, too much can be damaging. It also releases hormones that induce inflammation, which impacts every aspect of your health. Visceral fat is especially dangerous for your heart as it puts pressure on the heart and arteries, making it harder to pump blood and increasing risk of cardiovascular factors."

Meanwhile, Dr K Venkatasubbarao, endocrinologist with a private hospital in Jayanagar, explains that fat can be divided into visceral fat and subcutaneous fat, with visceral fat considered the main cause of metabolic diseases. "It is common to see Type 2 diabetes mellitus with visceral obesity in clinical practice. Regardless of weight, we know that belly fat increases risk of insulin resistance and Type 2 diabetes, cardiovascular disease, risk of stroke, and even colorectal cancer. The 'metabolic syndrome', of which belly fat is a risk factor, is important to watch for even at a young age. Thyroid hormones are also something to watch for as they play a role in regulating metabolism and other hormones such as insulin and cortisol," he said. Image-based technologies are best for screening visceral fat and other critical diseases like cancers, Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD), etc.

River-linking: State scores with plea on allocation

Bommai meets Union Minister Shekhawat; To meet FM today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

UNION Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat has agreed to Karnataka's appeal not to let neighbouring states go ahead with the interlinking of river projects until equitable share is allocated to the states concerned, including Karnataka. He will give instructions to the authorities, Karnataka Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said in New Delhi on Tuesday.

Bommai, who is on a two-day visit to the national capital, appears to have scored over neighbouring states, especially Tamil Nadu, with regard to water projects.

Asked about his cabinet rejig, he maintained that the party bosses have not given him instructions. "I have come here to push for the state's projects, and am making use of this opportunity to try and meet party President J P Nadda and Home Minister Amit Shah, and discuss the party's organisation and politics. Whether it's going to be expansion or reshuffle will be decided when we sit down together," he clarified.

Bommai claimed the Union cabinet will take a call on notifying Upper Bhadra Project as a national project, for which the state has sought funds for implementation. He will meet Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on Wednesday, along with Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol.

"We held a detailed discussion about Mekedatu and made our stand clear. We sought approval of the DPR as it is our right to implement the project by utilising our share of water, which will not affect Tamil Nadu," Bommai explained. Approval was sought for the feasibility report on Mahadayi, and the Upper Krishna Project Phase-III was discussed to heighten Almatti dam, he said.

Bommai was accompanied by his cabinet colleagues Govinda Karjol, Sunil Kumar and Murugesh Nirani, Union ministers Pralhad Joshi and Bhagwant Khuba, and LS members Pratap Simha and Shivakumar Udasi.

SC, ST land subsidy to be hiked to ₹20 lakh

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday said the subsidy given for Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe communities under the Land Ownership Scheme will be increased to Rs 20 lakh from the present Rs 15 lakh.

Speaking at a programme to present the Babu Jagjivan Ram awards, the CM said they have taken a decision to this effect. The land ownership subsidy is given to needy people from SC and ST communities to help them purchase land. The government has also increased the subsidy paid for the construction of houses for such communities from Rs 1.75 lakh to Rs 2 lakh.

The CM said the government has decided to formulate a Babu Jagjivan Ram Self Employment Scheme for SC and ST communities in every taluk and it will be introduced in a week. A special scheme to provide training for SC and ST students in boarding schools to appear in various competitive exams will be launched this year, said a statement issued by the Chief Minister's Office.

Bommai also said the state government has decided to provide free power up to 75 units for these communities in rural areas and a government order to this effect will be issued within a week. The CM said Babu Jagjivan Ram was an epitome of honesty and integrity and the credit for making India self-sufficient in foodgrain production through the Green Revolution goes to him.

RUCKUS IN FRONT OF CM

Former PM H D Deve Gowda speaks in the Rajya Sabha

B'lureans are beggars for water: Gowda in RS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WHEN 88-year-old former Prime Minister H D Deve Gowda rose to speak in the Rajya Sabha on Tuesday, he raised the issue of drinking water for Bengaluru and made an emotional appeal, hands folded and voice quivering. "We are beggars," he said. "The people of Bengaluru have been denied a share of drinking water from the Cauvery river. I am only speaking about the drinking water issue, I know the whole issue of the Cauvery and can speak volumes but I am not going to raise it here now."

Gowda, former chief minister of Karnataka, is among the most respected authorities on water in Karnataka.

At this, Rajya Sabha Chairman Venkaiah Naidu firmly gestured to him to sit down. Naidu, who sensed that Gowda would raise controversial issues, started cutting him short and repeatedly said, "Okay, Okay," before asking the next speaker to start.

Even when Gowda rose to speak, Naidu said, "You will express concern about drinking water, that is all, and will not raise any controversy." Gowda, who beat his breast emotionally, said 1.3 crore people of Bengaluru have a drinking water problem.

CONG, JDS SLAM STATE GOVT OVER COMMUNAL ISSUES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Opposition Congress on Tuesday slammed the State Government over not taking any action against right-wing organisations that are trying to create disturbance in the state, while the Janata Dal (Secular) hit out at right-wing groups for asking people not to buy mangoes from Muslim vendors.

"With Assembly elections nearing, the BJP is manipulating our society with communal issues for political gains. This will backfire on the BJP in the coming days. It is unfortunate that anti-social elements are disturbing peace and creating tension in our State," opposition leader Siddaramaiah said.

"Does the silence of the Chief Minister indicate his support or his inability to tackle the issue?" he questioned.

Members of a right-wing group submit a memorandum demanding a ban on loudspeakers in mosques in Bengaluru

Taking to social media, the former chief minister said it is important to bring order in the state for overall progress. "If the Chief Minister has real concerns for people, he should resign and go home before everything goes down. His failure is hurting people," he added.

Later in the day, speaking to media persons in Hiriyur, the former CM said law and order is deteriorating and Home Minister Araga Jnanendra failed to handle the situation. "If the law and order situation is bad, how can any investor come here?" he questioned.

For the BJP, electoral politics is more important and they play up all the issues in a sentimental way to reap political benefits, he said.

Former Chief Minister and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy said people will revolt against the BJP if the same situation continues. Some right-wing organisations are now trying to create a new controversy by asking people not to buy mangoes from Muslim vendors stating that they use chemicals, he said and termed the right-wing groups' action as "anti-national" and people will not tolerate it.

After the Hijab row and a campaign against halal meat, right-wing organisations are demanding that the government regulate the use of loudspeakers in mosques.

| A loudspeaker or a public address system shall not be used except after obtaining a written permission from the authority | A loudspeaker shall not be used at night (between 10 pm and 6 am) except in closed premises for communication within, e.g. auditoria, conference rooms, community halls and banquet halls | The state government may permit use of loudspeakers during night hours (between 10 pm and midnight) on or during any cultural or religious festivals of a limited duration not exceeding 15 days in all during a calendar year |

WHAT KARNATAKA HIGH COURT SAID

Hearing a PIL on January 11, 2021, the Karnataka HC asked the state to issue directions to the police and KSPCB to check and initiate action against the use of loudspeakers in religious places in violation of noise pollution rules and to adhere to the directions issued by the SC. Taking a serious note of PILs seeking action against noise pollution, the HC on November 16, 2021, directed the state to check under what provision mosques were allowed to use loudspeakers and to monitor noise pollution caused by vehicles and nightclubs.

said. Several meetings were held to take everyone into confidence and it will continue, he said. Responding to JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy's statement that he would launch a protest against the state government from April 16, the chief minister said everyone has the right to protest, but he will not respond to baseless statements. "We are confident of giving good governance to the people," he added.

BOMMAI said the High Court had also questioned the state government as to why the rules were not being implemented. The decibel levels were also specified and orders were issued to procure decibel meters at the district level, he added. ## Right-wingers demand ban on church event

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR
@Ballari

ORGANISERS of a church event in Ballari faced some tense moments on Monday evening after a few organisations raised objections to conducting the programme. Protesters said Valmiki Bhavan, where the event was being held, should not be given out to people from other religions.

Two days before the event, the protesters had approached the police and demanded that the programme be stopped. They alleged that the organisers could be involved in religious conversions. But the police stepped in and ensured that the programme went off smoothly. The police told the protesters that it is for the government to decide whether Valmiki Bhavan should be given to other religious groups or not.

Twitter spat turns focus from B'luru infra to halal, hijab

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka BJP has hit back at Telangana IT Minister K T Rama Rao for advising the state government to focus on infrastructure, IT and BT, and not on hijab and halal issues. With this, the twitter war that started with Bengaluru's infrastructure, has turned to controversial issues.

The spat started when Rama Rao invited Bengaluru-based startups, who had complained about poor infrastructure, to move to Hyderabad.

KPCC president D K Shivakumar responded, challenging him to wait for 2023 when the Congress would come to power and take Bengaluru back to its former glory. In his latest tweet, Rao said he doesn't know much about the politics of Karnataka, but he accepts the challenge. "Let Hyderabad and Bengaluru compete healthily on creating jobs for our youngsters and prosperity for our great nation. Let's focus on infra, IT and BT, not on Halal and Hijab," he stated.

Responding to KTR's latest tweet, the BJP termed his party, the Telangana Rashtra Samithi, as a "coward ruling party" that is harassing BJP workers. In a series of tweets, the Karnataka BJP hit out at Rao by giving out development figures, comparing the state to Telangana.

It stated that Karnataka stands first in the recent NITI Aayog Innovative Index report, , while Telangana was placed fourth. The party mentioned that Bengaluru ranks 40th in Global Residential Cities Index whereas Hyderabad is ranked 128.

Take up survey of industries leaving K'taka: DKS

BENGALURU: In the backdrop of the Twitter spat between Telangana IT Minister K T Rama Rao and the BJP, KPCC president D K Shivakumar expressed concern at the "atmosphere of unrest" in Karnataka. "Neither the Chief Minister nor any other minister has said that they will ensure peace in our state. Biocon chief Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw talked about the grim situation in the state and no one in the government has been able to satisfactorily address the concerns raised by her. The government is not able to say we will help create jobs here and not allow any investor to go to other states," he told TNIE. He said vested interests are raising fresh controversies each morning to trigger unrest in the state. "Our first priority in Karnataka is to bring in more investment and ensure there are more jobs," the Congress leader said.

HDK starts work to tighten grip on Old Mysuru region

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

EVEN though the Janata Dal (S) has been flexing its muscles against the BJP and saffron organisations over the hijab and halal issues in recent weeks, it is simultaneously preparing the ground for the Legislative Council election from the South Graduates Constituency that will be held in June.

Looking to tighten its grip over the Old Mysuru Region and Vokkaliga heartland, the party aims to send a strong message by retaining the South Graduates Constituency seat.

With a strong base in Mandya, Hassan and Mysuru as well as a few pockets in Chamrajnagar district, the party has fielded H K Ramu, former president of the State Government Employees Association. Ramu is a loyalist of sitting MLC K T Srikante Gowda whose tenure will end on June 2. Gowda has thrown his weight behind the candidate and they have already completed the first round of campaigning.

However, a rebellion is proving to be a headache for Kumaraswamy and JDS candidate Ramu as former senate member Kilari Jairam, a lecturer, and loyalist of JDS patriarch H D Deve Gowda is also keen to contest the graduate elections.

On other hand, the Congress has announced former MLC and educationist Madhu Madegowda, son of former MP G Madegowda, as its candidate.

The BJP has fielded Y V Ravishankar, who had lost the previous election narrowly, with the party high command overlooking strong aspirants like former MLC G Madhusudhan and physician Chandrashekar. The BSP, which has considerable influence among dalits youths, has fielded Chanakeshva Murthy, who has started the spadework since a couple of months.

All eyes will be on the polls as the Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha and dalit organisations have fielded Prasanna Gowda with the support of noted writer Devanoor Mahadeva and others.

Defected Congress leaders will return: Satish Jarkiholi

BELAGAVI: KPCC Working President Satish Jarkiholi on Tuesday claimed that all the Congress leaders and legislators who recently defected to the BJP are all set to return to the party fold. "Their return is imminent. Just wait and watch," he said at a programme in Athani. However, Jarkiholi is confident that the defected legislators will rejoin the party soon as they finding it "suffocating" in the saffron party. "The Congress is keen to announce its candidates for various constituencies well ahead of the next elections. Athani constituency is the prime target where the official candidate will be declared within a week. Our victory march will begin from this constituency," he said. ENS

THE Aam Aadmi Party (AAP), which is upbeat over its recent victory in the Punjab Assembly polls, is all set to kickstart its Karnataka campaign. And the Raitha Sangha faction of Kodihalli Chandrashekar will provide it the much-needed platform at a mega rally to be held on the National College Grounds in Bengaluru on April 21.

Delhi Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal, who shares a good rapport with Chandrashekar since their struggle against corruption and demand for the implementation of the Lokpal Bill, is expected to address a huge gathering of over one lakh farmers at the rally.

It is said that Chandrashekar has already embarked on a tour to organise farmers and elicit their response to this development. Speaking to TNIE, Chandrashekar maintained that the Raitha Sangha executive meeting, slated to be held in Bengaluru on April 11, will take a call on inviting Kejriwal.

AAP's Karnataka chief Pritvi Reddy told TNIE that more leaders, including three MPs and over 20 MLAs and former MLAs, are expected to join the party in the run-up to the polls.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) has come down heavily on the BJP government for giving an "electric shock" to people of Karnataka by increasing the power tariff for the "third time in the last 18 months".

AAP Karnataka convenor Prithvi Reddy said the BJP government has already increased the rates twice in the last 18 months — once in November 2020, and then in June 2021 even as the AAP government in New Delhi gave free electricity to 80 per cent of consumers there.

"The third increase in power bill is happening when people are suffering from the effects of lockdowns, curfews and prices of gas, oil, petrol etc. skyrocketing. It is clear that they are pick-pocketing the citizens at every opportunity, while taking no steps on corruption," said Reddy.

AAP Bengaluru president Mohan Dasari pointed out that the Karnataka government stated that it was increasing rates by 35 paise per unit of which 27 paise per unit was to recover Rs 1,700 crore loss in the financial year 2021. "The government gave no relief to consumers during the pandemic; they only postponed the date of their rate increase from April 2020 to November 2020. During this time, power costs should have been much lower, as the price of coal had come down significantly," he said.

Prakash Nedungadi, vice-president, Outreach, AAP, Bengaluru, accused the BJP government of being a "rich man's government" and blamed them for "paying more money to big energy suppliers like Adani Power".

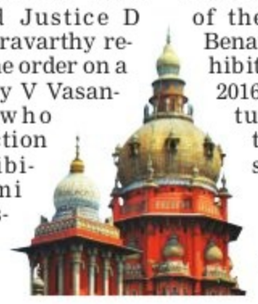
Six fishermen who had gone missing in the sea off Kakinada coast on March 30 were traced in the sea off Srikakulam coast, said N Srinivasa Rao, joint director of fisheries department on Tuesday. Acting on the district collector Dr Kritika Shukla's directions, a Coast Guard helicopter finally traced the fishermen near Srikakulam, and their family members were informed that they are safe.

Make ex-judges Tribunal's judicial members: HC

Court asks Centre to bring in necessary amendments, stikes down 32 (2)(a) of Prohibition of Benami Transactions Act, 1988

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

IN a significant order, the Madras High Court has ruled that judicial members of all the tribunals must be retired judges or members of the Bar and struck down section 32 (2)(a) of Prohibition of Benami Transactions Act, 1988 as unconstitutional. The court also directed the Centre to bring in the necessary amendments immediately.



The first bench of Chief Justice Munishwar Nath Bhandari and Justice D Bharatha Chakravarthy recently passed the order on a petition filed by V Vasanthakumar who prayed that section 9 of the Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 pertaining to qualification for judicial member of tribunals and section 32 (2)(a) of the Act as amended by Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Amendment Act, 2016 be declared unconstitutional as it runs contrary to the doctrine of separation of powers.

The Supreme Court, while upholding the creation of the National Company Law Tribunal, as well as the Appellate Tribunal held Chapters 1B and 1C of the Companies Act as unconstitutional. The principle laid down in the case of Union of India vs R Gandhi, president, Madras Bar Association has application to all the tribunals, the bench said.

The bench also noted that the matter was examined by the Division Bench of Madras HC in the case of Shamnad Basheer vs the Union of India and others. Considering that the proceedings before the tribunal would be judicial in nature, the necessity to appoint a member from the judiciary or the Bar was realised.

The necessity and importance of a judicial member and, that too, a person who served as a judge or a member of the Bar was felt and, accordingly, the Division Bench of this court held certain provisions of the Trademarks Act, 1999 and the Patents Act, 1970 to be unconstitutional, the judges pointed out.

"We hold section 32 (2)(a) of the Act of 1988 to be unconstitutional. The respondents are directed to frame the provision keeping in mind the directions of the Supreme Court in the case of Union of India vs R Gandhi, president, Madras Bar Association. The amended provision may be brought in immediately," the judges ordered.

Human trafficking: Sentencing upheld

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court has confirmed the order passed by a trial court convicting and sentencing Iqbal Ahmed from Marappa Garden in the city, in a case related to creation of forged passports for human trafficking.

"It is quite natural that an accused, ably assisted by a seasoned lawyer, may try to find fault in the procedure, but the courts must be very circumspect when such issues are raised. In this case, procedure has been followed," Justice Sreenivas Harish Kumar observed on the contention of the petitioner that his conviction is against Article 21 of the Constitution. The court further observed that Article 21 applies when personal liberty of a person is deprived without following the procedure.

On receiving information that some people were involved in creation of forged and fabricated passports for the purpose of human trafficking, the Sampigehalli police registered the crime in 2009. The petitioner was arrested based on the statement given by one of the accused. They recovered a passport from Syed Iqbal which showed that it had been used multiple times to visit countries like Malaysia, Singapore, Canada, China and the USA.

Later, the investigation was handed over to the CBI which filed the charge-sheet. After trial, the Special Court for CBI cases convicted the petitioner for the offences punishable under the provisions of the Passports Act.

Tailor brews up fake engine oil, nabbed

PRAVEEN KUMAR @Bengaluru

AN Assistant Sub-Inspector (ASI) attached to Ashoknagar police station, Central Division, was successful in unearthing a fake engine oil racket by arresting two fraudsters, including a tailor, who was the mastermind. Fake engine oil worth around Rs 10 lakh was recovered from the main accused Swamy, alias Oil Swamy, from Channapatna, and M R Nagaraj from Hassan district.

The officer was tipped off about fake engine oil by a mechanic, and used local intelligence to find the mastermind. He then hatched a plot in the guise of a prospective buyer, and nabbedthe main accused. After the arrest, a godown at Yalachipalya in Channapatna, where the fake oil was being manufactured, was sealed.

The officer even camped in Delhi for over a week to gather information about the suppliers of raw materials to the accused. The engine oil was being sold using stickers of reputed engine oil companies. The accused, who sold fake engine oil not only in the city, but almost in every district across Karnataka, were pocketing Rs 100-Rs 150 per litre of oil. Hari Chandra, the ASI attached to Ashoknagar police station for the past nine months, got a tip-off from a vehicle mechanic in Austin Town. The accused Swamy is from Yalachipalya and his associate Nagaraj of Mavanuru village in Hassan. The police first arrested Nagaraj, as he was distributing the fake oil. Oil Swamy was arrested from his factory.

Swamy, a tailor, came in contact with a person from Delhi who was working in an engine oil manufacturing company. He got inputs about the production of engine oil from the latter, and began purchasing raw materials to manufacture it. He then approached small-time engine oil sellers across the state and lured them with high commissions. "If it was any other cop, the information would have been easily brushed aside. But the ASI took the tip-off seriously and worked hard till the case reached its logical end.," said an officer attached to Ashoknagar police station.

The Crucial Role of Information Technology in Internal Security

GIRISH LINGANNA

While most countries are on high-alert as far as security threats from international agents are concerned, internal security also is just as important. A strong and robust internal security system is indispensable to protect the harmony and security of the citizens of the nation. As in other areas, information technology must be harnessed to make the security system updated and useful.

Crime Mapping and Analysis

The traditional methods of maintaining crime records are outdated today. Extremely efficient and useful methods are offered by Information Technology solutions.

For instance, Geographic Information System (GIS) Maps, computer-generated maps, provide access to large amounts of location-based data. It allows law enforcement authorities to analyse past events, predict future events, and effectively plan for emergencies and unforeseen events. It also helps in identifying potential suspects when there are no leads to crack a case.

About eight years ago, the police departments of cities like Bengaluru, Goa, Hyderabad, Delhi, Chennai, Thiruvananthapuram and Kolkata incorporated customised GIS into their crime mapping system. Although, this technology is indispensable in Indian policing, it is still in the raw stages of development. Some cities like Thiruvananthapuram are considering winding up the GIS crime mapping as an independent project, due to system incompatibility and other technical issues. However, it is believed that it will instead be integrated with the ERSS or the Emergency Response Support System that was introduced by the Ministry of Home Affairs.

Incident Mapping

Crime incidents are usually not distributed randomly across geography. And hence, detecting areas where they occur at higher or an abnormal frequency is essential to utilise resources to their optimum potential. An insight into the locations of incidents and comparing them with other factors such as time and offense statistics help identify problem areas.

Incident Analysis can be used to detect trends and patterns of any significant activity. It consists of maps and a variety of other tools that are used to carry out trend and pattern analysis. This is then used to formulate situation maps showcasing incident hotspots as well as the type activity.

'Safe City' is one such platform that has created a crowd-sourced map of sexual harassment, thus mapping safe and unsafe places across India. It is a website that empowers not only individuals and communities but also city governments and police to create safer public and private spaces. This helps authorities and policymakers create safe spaces by increasing awareness, transparency, and most importantly, public accountability.

CCTNS and GIS

Crime and Criminal Tracking Network & Systems (CCTNS) is a project under the National e-Governance Plan (NeGP) of Govt. of India. It aims at achieving an integrated, comprehensive system to enhance effectiveness and efficiency of policing by creating a nationwide networking infrastructure. This infrastructure helps in the evolution of an IT-enabled state-of-the-art tracking system around investigation of crime, and detection of criminals.

CCTNS is implemented in alignment with the NeGP principle which is, "centralised planning and decentralised implementation." At the State level it is focused on 'bundling of services.' Accordingly, each state selects one System Integrator (SI) — a single point of contact for the State for all the CCTNS components.

Reporting and Management for Patrolling Staff

A key challenge faced by security managers is to ensure their employees are doing their job well when they are placed in different locations and carrying out different duties. However, there is a need to think beyond manual forms and reports, to remain competitive in the industry. This is because they are time-consuming, inefficient and more prone to errors. An integrated approach that includes simple, reliable tech tools is crucial to minimise human error and streamline security processes and patrols. The industry is embracing a new wave of technology — simple phone apps and security management software — that help with patrols, scheduling, reporting, and more.

Accident Analysis Smart Mapping

There has been significant growth in the number of road accidents and crashes leading to loss of lives and, debilitating injuries. GIS offers the most demanding tools to analyse road accidents, which can help in creating better road designs for accident prevention. The goal of an accident-mapping algorithm is to capture and map traffic accidents to the correct roads. Labelling accidents onto the correct segments helps to effectively carry out key analyses in accident research which include identifying accident hot-spots, risk mapping at the network level, and accident risk modelling at the segment level.

112 Application

The government's '112 India' app is an all-in-one application that can be used to raise an SOS alert with a single click during an emergency. 112 India is the go-to app for emergencies with an easy-to-use interface, that can operationlise rescue services instantaneously with the help of a response team and local volunteers. Developed as part of the Government of India's Emergency Response Support System (ERSS) initiative, the objective of the app is to make support readily available to citizens in need. Available on Android as well as iOS platforms, it is currently operating in 23 states and union territories.

Criminal Justice System

COVID-19 prompted a drastic shift in the use of technology across criminal justice systems in different parts of the world. In countries like Australia, Canada, India, Ireland, Netherlands, and the UK, justice leaders have been harnessing technology innovatively to address the impact of COVID-19. In the past decade, there has been immense progress in analytics within the criminal justice community. Developments in data computing and Geographic Information System (GIS), like ArcGIS and MapInfo, have helped researchers convert geographic data like GPS coordinates or addresses into coordinates that can be used with virtual maps. These virtual maps have enabled crime analysts and researchers to spot patterns in criminal activity. However, almost half of the senior justice leaders are dissatisfied with the current state of technology use and believe there is room for improvement.

Facial Recognition

Tracking and finding a person has become a necessary task for various security reasons. Development in Facial Recognition technology consists of models that identify and alert the system when a person who is 'wanted' has been found under CCTV camera surveillance. These cameras are connected to a centralised server to which the live stream is uploaded by the cameras at each location. This server contains a database of persons on the watch list.

Facial recognition backed by AI has been installed at Bengaluru, Bhusawal and Manmad stations as test cases to spot and nab criminals. The Railway Protection Force (RPF) has linked the facial recognition system with existing databases to identify criminals in railway stations. The real-time face recognition software alerts the RPF command centre of known offenders. Officials said that once the facial recognition system testing is complete, it will be implemented across the railway network.

Number Plate Recognition

Due to a significant increase in the number of vehicles, the use of automated systems to maintain vehicle information, for data management and theft reduction, has become highly essential. Number plate recognition is the most effective method for automatic vehicle identification. Also known as License Plate Recognition (LPR), it usually has three main components: license plate detection, license plate recognition and character segmentation. The quality of a license plate detector influences the accuracy of license plate recognition. Many of the existing license plate detection algorithms are restricted by various conditions such as fixed backgrounds, known colour, or designated ranges of the distance between the cameras and vehicles. Some of the major commercial systems for license plate recognition include Optical Character Recognition (OCR) based method, and learning-based method.

Digital Forensic Tools

The acquisition and analysis of evidence is necessary to understand the wide range of tools and techniques available, as well as the necessary criteria for evaluating their suitability. There are three major methods of extracting evidence: physical, logical and file system acquisition.

Physical acquisition is most commonly used and consists of creating an identical replica of the original, hence preserving all potential evidence. Although time consuming, this method helps find deleted elements. Logical acquisition involves making a copy of the objects on the device. This makes use of the mechanisms natively implemented by the manufacturer, and is a simpler process although it does not allow access to a great amount of data. File system acquisition on the other hand, allows all visible files to be obtained through the file system, which do not include any deleted files or hidden data. This method is less complex and can be sufficient, depending on the nature of the case.

The selection process to determine the most suitable method takes many aspects into consideration like the required level of thoroughness, time limit, type of information to be obtained, etc. Some of the generic free tools include Open Source Android Forensics, Andriller, A Logical OSE, etc.

Data Analytics and Crime Prevention

Whether it is crime detection or criminal profiling, the police have always relied on data. With modern data analytics tools, law enforcement can be proactive instead of being reactive which is one of the effective ways to prevent crimes. Criminal profiling consists of creating a descriptive profile of the perpetrator which is to be used as a guide to capturing the criminal. To create a criminal profile, investigating officers collect clues and search for potential connections between the collected artifacts. Modern data analytics uses machine learning to identify patterns and create more accurate criminal profiles in a significantly less amount of time. This is also useful in crime prevention as criminals exhibit predictable behaviours leading up to the crimes.

Predictive policing, on the other hand, uses law enforcement in places where crime is most likely to occur. This technique has been effectively used in large cities such as New York, London, and Chicago. Law enforcement agencies use statistics and analytics to spot places with high crime rates and ramp up policing resources in these regions. By analysing data of major crimes such as murders, shootings, robberies, trends and patterns can be identified, which in turn would help in reducing these crimes.

The Indian Police force has also started taking a keen interest in crime analysis using big data to predict and infer patterns especially related to human interactions and behaviour. The police use predictive analytics to develop models using machine learning. These are then used to spot the areas that are most prone to crimes. The Delhi police in collaboration with ISRO has developed an analytical system named Crime Mapping, Analytics and Predictive System (CMAPS), which helps in internal security, control crime, and maintain law and order through the analysis of not just data, but also patterns. The Bangalore police with the help of IBM is now training officers on the better utilisation of data analytics software.

VANNIYAR QUOTA CASE OPENS DOOR FOR CASTE CENSUS IN TN

That the Supreme Court held the 2021 Act providing 10.5% internal reservation to Vanniyars as unconstitutional is hardly surprising. The Act was passed hastily, just hours before the notification of state Assembly elections, in what critics termed an attempt by the then AIADMK government to score political capital with members of the community, numerically strong in parts of northern and western Tamil Nadu. The political fallout of the move can only be termed mixed at best. The DMK swept the northern districts and the internal quota is believed to have hurt the AIADMK in southern parts of the state with members of Denotified Communities, at whose cost, arguably, it was carved out. The law was struck down by the Madras High Court on multiple grounds, only one of which held water with the Supreme Court.

Pointing to the Indra Sawhney verdict, the court held that caste can certainly be the starting point to providing reservation but cannot be the sole basis. The 2021 Act relied on a letter from Justice Thanikachalam in favour of the sub-quota, citing the minority opinion of the chairman of the Janarthanam commission in 2012. The court rightly pointed out that the sub-quota was thus provided on the basis of antiquated data. Without appropriate data, there is no justifiable grounds to show why one community should be treated differently from the 115 other communities that fall under the 20% quota for Most Backward Communities. However, the court disagreed with the HC and held that the state does have the legislative powers to enact such laws.

The SC verdict sets the stage for TN to embark on a caste census, if it is serious on providing the sub-quota for Vanniyars. However, the DMK government, soon after coming to power last May, had allowed the term of the Kulasekaran commission to end without extension before it could embark on the caste survey as it was mandated to do. As part of the reforms that it has attempted since coming to power, the DMK—which faces no polls till 2024—should use the opportunity to embark on the census as part of fulfilling its goals of ensuring social justice to all.

ODISHA'S POOR RECORD OF WOMEN'S SAFETY

Just a week ago, a 15-year-old girl, sexually assaulted multiple times over the past three months by a youth from the neighbourhood, was tied to a pole and thrashed to be made an example of. Reason: her father went to report the matter to the police after the local sarpanch refused to intervene. This happened in Odisha's Nayagarh, a district that continues to grab headlines for atrocities against women and children. In 2020, a minor girl's rape and murder snowballed into a huge controversy when the police sat on the case and did not even preserve crucial forensic evidence. Only after the victim's parents attempted self-immolation before the state Assembly did the government wake up from its slumber and constituted a special investigation team. The district, on its part, has a dubious distinction of female foeticide and similar crimes. It has elected some influential politicians and ministers of the BJD government. Yet, nothing seems to cut ice. A couple of days ago, a Class 10 student of Sundargarh district died by suicide following sexual exploitation by the headmaster.

In Odisha, crimes against women and girls are upwardly mobile. By the government's own admission in the recently-concluded Assembly session, the state reported an 11% spike in rape cases registered in 2021. Between 2018 and 2021, the jump is as high as 32%. The National Crime Records Bureau report suggests that Odisha is among the top states in this category. Plus, there has been a spurt in cyber-crimes against women as well. Sexual offences against children are also on the rise. All this reflects very poorly, primarily on the Odisha police as there is scant fear of law and the enforcement agency, which has become systematically weak and is caught on the wrong foot time and again. This must alarm the Naveen Patnaik government, which espouses the cause of women empowerment. After panchayat polls, the BJD government bragged about giving over 70% zilla parishad president posts to women. All the rhetoric of higher representation of women in legislature would mean nothing if it did not translate into change on the ground in the safety and security of women and children in Odisha.

BIMSTEC is today nearing completion of the third decade since its formulation in 1994; in that period, it has held just five summits and come out with its first-ever charter only in 2022

THE BIMSTEC CHARTER: MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

SHANKARI SUNDARARAMAN

Professor at School of International Studies, JNU, New Delhi

ASIAN AXIS

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Just last week, the 5th Summit of The Bay of Bengal Initiative for Multi-Sectoral Technical and Economic Cooperation (BIMSTEC) was held under the auspices of the theme "Towards a Resilient Region, Prosperous Economies and Healthy People", implicating the core priorities for the organisation. BIMSTEC is a sub-regional grouping of nations that are predominantly littoral states of the Bay of Bengal, while two of the members—Nepal and Bhutan—are landlocked areas. In terms of sheer population and GDP of the region, the BIMSTEC represents a critical grouping of states comprising nearly 1.7 billion in population and a GDP of nearly 3 trillion. While this seems impressive in terms of its relevance to global shifts, in reality the BIMSTEC seems to fall short on multiple fronts. It is today nearing completion of the third decade since its initial conception and formulation in 1994; in that period, it has held five summits and come out with its first-ever charter in 2022.

At the time of its conception, the idea was to reinvigorate regional cooperation at the sub-regional level, bringing together a few states from South Asia and Southeast Asia, particularly as these states shared contiguity over a common maritime space—the Bay of Bengal—thereby furthering a conception of community building for the shared space. Two factors were critical for its inception: first, the processes of the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) floundered within a decade following its formation. For India, its bilateral relations with Pakistan held the SAARC hostage to the vagaries of the political ties between the two. At that point the origins of the BIST-EC, as it was initially known, began with an initiative by Thailand, which sought to enhance economic ties with a few of the littoral states around the Bay of Bengal. Second, a key shift allowed for the inclusion of Myanmar in the BIMSTEC in 1997. That year, Myanmar was included as a member to the ASEAN, paving the way for the State Law and Order Restoration Council (SLORC) and subsequently the State Peace and Development Council (SPDC), to find more regional acceptance. The move towards regional integration was seen as a way forward for Myanmar from years of international isolation. The BIMSTEC, therefore, offered Myanmar one more option to pursue its foreign policy of seeking political leverage through regional integration. While it originally started as the Bangladesh, India, Myanmar, Sri Lanka, Thailand – Economic Cooperation, in 2004 the BIMSTEC further expanded to include both Nepal and Bhutan, which were landlocked Himalayan states that needed access to maritime spaces through their neighbouring nations. This enlarged the membership and initiated the move towards a notional concept of a Bay of Bengal community. But the core issues that were critical for any effort towards cooperation was to systematically enhance the substandard levels of trade, improve regional connectivity to further the movement of trade commodities and people, and deepen the levels of integration through cooperation. On some of these core areas, the BIMSTEC is yet to move forward and three challenges are critical to address.

The core issues critical for any effort towards cooperation are to systematically enhance the substandard levels of trade, improve regional connectivity to further the movement of commodities and people, and deepen levels of integration through cooperation. On some of these areas, the BIMSTEC is yet to move forward

First, where the Free Trade Agreement (FTA) is concerned, it has been progressing at snail's pace. It is today 18 years since the initial moves to start the FTA was initiated in 2004, when the first BIMSTEC summit was held in Thailand. The idea of the BIMSTEC FTA, like all other FTAs, was to promote the reduction of tariff and allow for the movement of goods and services across a wider regional canvas that would potentially promote investment and closer economic cooperation. Even though several rounds of negotiations have been held, the move towards the conclusion of the FTA remains elusive. Closely related to this are the issues of connectivity, where progress has been slow. Moreover, our nation's reluctance to join the RCEP and the review process of the India-ASEAN FTA, leaves New Delhi shy of a full embrace of the BIMSTEC FTA, which will have a critical impact as the country remains the largest economy within the BIMSTEC. It is imperative to understand that India is to the BIMSTEC FTA what China is to the RCEP.

Second, what began as a forum for furthering economic and technical cooperation has since 2016 begun to show greater focus on security cooperation aspects. For India, the move to revive the BIMSTEC in 2016 was a factor that was determined by the deteriorating ties with its immediate neighbour Pakistan. The revival and outreach to the BIMSTEC members in 2016 provided the sub-regional grouping with visibility. Issues concerning terrorism, maritime security matters and the need to address non-traditional security challenges began to be brought into the ambit of the discussions. In the recently concluded summit, the question of the Ukraine crisis and how the international order has critically shifted was well emphasised in Prime Minister Narendra Modi's speech, indicating the threshold shift as far as the BIMSTEC is concerned. But the emphasis on these areas still remains rhetorical even as the deepening of ties within the BIMSTEC is a challenge.

Third, two countries of the BIMSTEC will be increasingly relevant: one, the unfolding economic crisis in Sri Lanka and the impact this will have on the country's political system needs to be closely watched. Similarly, the lack of progress on Myanmar's political impasse has already created a challenge in how the BIMSTEC will help to address these two member states. So while the charter is a step forward in institutionalising the BIMSTEC, it remains a relatively negligible step towards deepening the integration.

NUMEROUS MANIFESTATIONS OF KALI CELEBRATED IN KERALA

JAYARAM PODUVAL

Head, Department of Art History, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda

When people in other parts of India ask my suggestion on which season to travel to Kerala, I always suggest the months of March and April; that is, if they can withstand the sultry heat in the state during this period. For a cultural tourist who wants to know the pulse of Kerala, this is really the season to travel, especially to the Northern regions. This is the period when Keralites celebrate their gods, or rather, goddesses. The worship of the goddess Kali or her numerous manifestations in Kerala is initiated in the months of Kumbham and Meenam in the Malayalam calendar. These worshipping systems vary in different regions; in north Malabar, she is propitiated as Bhagavati and Chamundi through Theyyam performances, in South Malabar it will be through Tiras and in central Kerala through Puram festivals and Talappolis. In south Kerala, her valiant feats are expounded through Padayani performances and Thottampaattus and Villupaattus. During these months, the victory over the demons like the Darika, Ruru, Chanda and Munda are reenacted and celebrated, evil forces spreading epidemics are summoned and reprimanded, a warning to the wrongdoers is delivered through the oracles and other manifestations of the goddess. In the folk realm, her victory over Darika and Chanda-Munda is evoked. In the elite system of worship, the goddess is worshipped as Bhadra Kali in the rurujita form with Shakta system of rituals.

One of the main centres of Bhadrakali worship in Kerala is Kodungallur in Thrissur district. Placed in the middle of the comparatively peaceful town of Kodungallur, this Bhagavati Temple will swing into action during the Bharani festival scheduled this year on April 4. Thousands of oracles (Velichappadus/Komarams) from all around Kerala will congregate in Kodungallur attired in red clothing with chiming bronze anklets and rattling belts shining in the penetrating April sun. Brandishing their sickle-shaped bronze swords decorated with bells, they dance in a trance, accentuating their dishevelled hair with rapid movements. The vermillion paste on their forehead soaked with sweat drips down their face, like the blood on the face of a wounded but victorious soldier. They are the foot soldiers of the goddess, dancing with war cries, celebrating her victory over evil. In the frenzy of the victory, emotions pour out, even studded with superlative abuses composed as ballads. In a trance they circumambulate the temple, banging on the roof with aggression. They will throw slaughtered meat into the premises along with vermillion and turmeric powder, singing, shouting and dancing. After the circumambulation of the temple, the devotees rush into the premises. This is the frenzy of Kavutheendal (defiling of the sacred precinct) as part of the Bharani festival at Kodungallur. Though the Bharani festival is also celebrated at Karthyayani Temple at Cherthala (Alappuzha district) and the Bhadrakali temple at Sharkara (Thiruvananthapuram district), the Kavutheendal appears exclusive to Kodungallur.

Theendal is a word used for the act of defiling/polluting a highly structured caste system in Kerala. The word for untouchability in Malayalam language is ayittam and theendal. Ayittam probably came from the Sanskrit word 'asuddha' meaning impure and it stands for the whole system of caste hierarchy and segregation based on purity. Theendal means the mundane practice of ayittam. The word Theendal originated from the Malayalam word todu, meaning touch. Even now, one can get a glimpse of theendal by visiting Kerala temples when the santhikkaran (brahmin priest) gives you the prasadam (offering). He drops it into the receiver's hand, leaving the distance of at least one foot between the devotee and himself. Here he is keeping the distance of theendal.

Thanks to the social reform movements enthused by the education system starting from the fag end of the 19th century, the opening of public roads and government institutions to the lower caste happened in the first quarter of the 20th century. The breaking of the caste hierarchy and public entry into the temple premises only happened in 1948 through the Temple Entry Proclamation for the Kochi region. A report by this newspaper on 23 March 2015 reads thus, "Long before the enactment of the Temple Entry Proclamation, Kodungallur Temple was open to Dalits during the Bharani fest for 27 days. Symbolically, the fest is dedicated to raw and untamed energy of the repressed. It provides an opportunity for repressed sections in society to vent out their anger in the form of a catharsis."

Many mistakenly assume that the Bharani festival is named because it is conducted on the day of Bharani. Local historian V V K Valath, in one of his articles, suggested that Bharani is the sanskritised version of the Tamil word Parani mentioned in the ancient Tamil text Tolkappiyam as the favourite festival of the Tamil goddess Korravai. War songs like Kalinkapparani are an example of Parani poems prevalent in the Sangam period, adds Valath. The Kodungallur Kurumba Bhagavathi temple must have been the one mentioned in the Silappatikaram, with the myth of Kannagi integrated with that of Korravai and Bhadrakali. The word Kurumba gives yet another dimension of the worship of epidemics like small pox (Vasuri), which in Tamil and Malayalam is known as Kuruppu. At the Kodungallur temple, we do get the shrine of Vasuri Mala as subservient to the cardinal deity Bhadrakali.

So here is a goddess who protects her devotees from epidemics, gives spiritual asylum to the sacred Pattini (Consort) like Kannagi and allows millions of her repressed devotees to defile her sacred precinct. She is indeed, the Goddess for all.

Possibility of military coup

This is with reference to Imran's mockery of democracy in calling snap polls (Apr 5). Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan's brazen dismissal of the no-confidence vote in his Parliament followed by its dissolution by the President on his recommendation, throwing constitutional proprietary to the winds, can only be construed as his last-ditch attempt to cling on to power. This has the potential to snowball into a full-blown crisis that would end in a military coup if not resolved in a timely manner.

India should take the lead

India's stand in the UN with regards to the Ukraine crisis is that dialogue is the best solution to end the war, which has been acknowledged by most nations. It therefore seems appropriate that India take the lead in initiating the dialogue. There could be something like a New Delhi summit to bring Russia and Ukraine together, with India playing the role of the mediator.

Operation Focus welcome

The 'Operation Focus' drive launched by the Kerala Motor Vehicle Department is a great move. The dimming of lights of vehicles during night journeys to ensure better visibility for those coming from the opposite direction has become a thing of the past, causing many avoidable road accidents. The proposed drive should not be limited to a one-time exercise for ten days. Non-observance of the provisions should attract strong penalties.

AAP's next target

Post its stupendous win in the Punjab elections, the Arvind Kejriwal-led AAP is now verily on the prowl, having taken Ahmedabad as their next target. AAp's strategy seems to revolve around expanding its leadership bbase by recruiting those with stellar credentials and public images. This is clearly manifest in their getting former Bangalore Police Commissioner Bhaskara Rao to hang up his boots and plunge into mainstream politics by joining the AAP. The party has a clean image comparatively and honest leaders running its affairs, which may be enough inducement for right thinking people to throw in their might with Kejriwal.

Israeli PM Bennett likely to make India trip in June

April plan affected by Covid, tech and defence talk on the cards

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

ISRAELI Prime Minister Naftali Bennett is likely to visit India after their Parliament session gets over in June. He was scheduled to be in India from April 3-5, but the trip was cancelled at the last minute after he tested positive for Covid-19.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi spoke to Bennett on Monday evening and conveyed his wishes for a speedy recovery. He also expressed grief at the loss of lives in recent terror attacks in Israel. They had a discussion on recent geo-political developments, including the Ukraine situation. They also reviewed existing bilateral cooperation initiatives.

Bennett is unable to make the trip at the moment because his presence is required in Parliament. Since it is a hung House, managing a coalition needs his constant attention.

On the trip which got cancelled, a 150-member delegation was supposed to accompany Bennett. Bilateral agreements were expected to be announced and signed. His visit marks 30 years of India-Israel ties.

Israeli chip manufacturer Tower Semiconductor (which was acquired by Intel for $5.4 billion) has been keen on setting up a manufacturing facility in Bengaluru. On the trip that was cancelled, Bennett was scheduled to visit Bengaluru. Announcement on setting up a semi-conductor manufacturing facility in Bengaluru was also on the cards. It's not clear at the moment if these programmes will be accommodated in his itinerary when he comes to India in June.

Israel has had a consulate in Bengaluru for over a decade now. Since almost half of Israel's exports are related to IT innovation, Bengaluru is a significant destination for them.

Former Israeli Ambassador to India, Dr Ron Malka, who is now the Director General in Israel's Ministry of Economy and Industry, is expected to be a part of the delegation. Sectors India and Israel are likely to collaborate in include technology, agriculture and defence.

"Modi restarted relations between India and Israel, and this is of historic importance. The relations between our two unique cultures \are deep, and they rely on deep appreciation and meaningful collaborations," Bennett had said.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

OPPOSITION parties on Tuesday berated the government for using the operation to evacuate students from Ukraine for publicity, and asked it to take steps to de-escalate the war.

Speaking in Lok Sabha during a discussion on Ukraine, Manish Tiwari of Congress said, "Ministers making students evacuated from war-torn Ukraine chant slogans in favour of the government was a self-defeating spectacle."

He said India has conducted 23 such evacuations since 1962-63, including from Burma, Kuwait, Lebanon and Libya. Tiwari said it was the government's duty to protect its citizens. But it was unbecoming of the present government to have used the occasion for self-promotion.

National Conference leader Farooq Abdullah said India should take steps to de-escalate the situation. "Unless you do that, we won't be able to tell future generations about what you did," Abdullah said, adding that the present situation emerged after Ukraine decided to join NATO thereby bringing NATO to Russia's border.

Congress MP Shashi Tharoor commended the government for the success of Operation Ganga and the return of 23,000 Indians. "But it is to be pointed out that while we commend the embassy for having begun to register the students in Ukraine early in the process, it is also true that some other embassies were quicker off the mark in getting people out, and I think there's no harm in admitting this. "We did not, for example, have enough domestic transport arrangements in Ukraine, a lot of the students had to walk long distances to get to the border points and that is something we'll have to bear in mind for future situations."

NCP's Supriya Sule called for cessation of war. "We talk about genocides, this is a genocide. So what are we going to do? How do we bring in peace with more dialogue? What can India's role be to protect both nations and stop this genocide?"

Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia said the war is a sensitive issue and political parties should speak with one voice on it. "We might be from different political organisations. But for us, the country and its citizens should come first. This is a very sensitive issue. I was given the responsibility of Romania and Moldova. We were told by the PM that we would come back only after the last flight with our citizens left that country," said Scindia.

ARUNACHAL CENSUS

Chakmas and Hajongs decry racial profiling

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Guwahati

MEMBERS of the Chakma and Hajong communities staged a protest in New Delhi on Tuesday, against their alleged racial profiling by the Arunachal Pradesh government through a special census.

On August 15 last year, Arunachal Chief Minister Pema Khandu had announced that Chakma and Hajong settlers would be relocated outside the state. Chakma organisations claimed that a training of government enumerators in this regard was scheduled for Tuesday at Diyun circle in Changlang district. The protestors submitted a memorandum to Union Home Minister Amit Shah with a set of demands.

"In clear violations of the directions of the National Human Rights Commission against racial profiling, Arunachal government officials sought to conduct the illegal census. The Chakmas and the Hajongs shall not participate in any such illegal census," Rup Singh Chakma, president of the Arunachal Pradesh Chakma Students' Union, said.

He claimed the Chakmas and the Hajongs, who migrated during 1964-1969, are citizens of India as per the Indira-Mujib accord of 1972 and Section 5 (1) of the Citizenship Act of 1955. Those born in India are citizens by birth too, he claimed.

Santosh Chakma, general secretary of the Committee for Citizenship Rights of the Chakmas and Hajongs of Arunachal Pradesh, said the Arunachal government started the racial profiling to keep the pot boiling. "There is no law in India which can make particular citizens to stand in the queue for census solely based on their Chakma or Hajong ethnic origin and the same is prohibited by Article 14 of the Constitution of India," he said.

By seeking to conduct the special census, the state government is destroying communal harmony and cordial relations between the Chakmas and Hajongs and the other communities, he alleged.

The plea also seeks guidelines for protection of doctors who are often subjected to physical assault at the slightest suspicion over treatment and delay in the recovery of patients.

The plea says it is necessary on account of continuous assaults on doctors under the cover of medical negligence across the country on a regular basis. "The recent death of a practicing gynecologist, Dr Archana Sharma of Jaipur on March 29, is a grim reminder of ugly treatment being meted out to the treating doctors," said the petition filed by advocate Shashank Singh Sudhi.

It says several questions need to be addressed. These include evaluating "whether there is an urgent requirement for implementation of deterrent guidelines to protect the doctors.

Protest against no recruitment in armed forces

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

YOUTHS from across the country aspiring to join the armed forces gathered at Jantar Mantar on Tuesday to protest against the delay in recruitment. They claimed there has been no recruitment in non-officer ranks in the Army, Air Force and Navy for two years. They demanded recruitment rallies should be held.

"It is a matter of our future since there have hardly been any recruitment rallies," said Kundan Said, an Army aspirant. Many who had been working hard to join the armed forces have crossed the age limit because recruitment rallies were not held, he Kundan.

"It is an appeal to our government to hold these rallies. Otherwise, our dreams will get shattered," said Jyani Bhawani, another aspirant.

These aspirants have run social media campaigns to draw the attention of officials. Realising that the efforts was futile, they decided to converge at Jantar Mantar. The protest was planned to coincide with the Parliament session.

The Indian Army has a sanctioned strength of 12,12,000, but it has a shortage of 81,000 personnel. Currently, there are 12,431 vacancies in Navy and 5,471 in the Air Force. An examination for airmen was conducted last July and results were supposed to be declared in three weeks. The aspirants alleged that the enrollment list is yet to be made public by the Air Force. "It has been around nine months and we have received no communication from the defence ministry or Indian Air Force," said Bhawani.

In a written reply in Rajya Sabha, Minister of State for Defence, Ajay Bhatt had cited the Covid-19 pandemic as the reason for cancelling all the rallies nationwide. Every year, Army, Navy and Air Force used to hold about 100 recruitment rallies covering all regions to induct around 60,000. In 2018-19, 53,431 candidates were inducted and 80,572 more were recruited next year.

NO MERIT IN NURSING DOWRY, GOOD, BAD OR UGLY !

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

AS the textbook page for nursing students that mentions one of the merits of the dowry system is to get 'ugly girls married off' went viral and snowballed into a major controversy, the Indian Nursing Council (INC) on Tuesday asked Delhi Police to take action as per law against the publisher and author for misusing the council's name and defaming it. The INC is a statutory body under the Union health ministry.

The National Commission for Women (NCW) also wrote to the education minister and the health secretary on the matter, which was first flagged by Rajya Sabha MP Priyanka Chaturvedi, who shot off a letter to Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan on Monday, asking him to stop the circulation of such "regressive textbooks" and to take them off circulation.

The controversial excerpts from the 'Textbook of Sociology for Nurses' by T K Indrani, under the heading "The Merits of Dowry," drew flak on social media. The book's cover mentions it is written according to the syllabus of the INC. In a letter to the Okhla Industrial Area police station, INC secretary Lt Col (Dr) Sarvjeet Kaur, said a complaint may be lodged and necessary action be taken as per law against the author and publishing house Jaypee Brother Medical Publisher Pvt Ltd for "misusing the INC's name and defaming it."

It also said that action may also be taken against them for corrupting the minds of young students by teaching them regressive and illegal acts that are prohibited under the Indian law.

The INC added it has issued an advisory to all universities and state nurses registration councils (SNRC) to do proper homework before prescribing any textbook to nursing colleges.

Condemning any derogatory content related to social evils like dowry and using its name, the INC had said in an earlier statement that it "only prescribes syllabus and does not endorse any author or publisher."

The NCW expressed grave concern and said it sends a wrong message to students about the prevailing menace of 'dowry,' which is illegal in India under the anti-dowry law. NCW Chairperson Rekha Sharma said the government is making all sorts of efforts to empower women through various schemes and legislation, but portraying the evil in a positive way would undermine women's empowerment.

General Naravane also called on Ng Eng Hen (in pic), Singapore's Minister for Defence, and discussed regional geopolitical developments, reaffirming the strong and longstanding bilateral defence relationship between both nations.

General Naravane's visit is a good initiative keeping in with India's efforts towards its larger goals, according to defence analyst Commodore (Retd) Anil Jai Singh. # ED attaches properties of Raut, Aghadi claims vendetta politics

Rajya Sabha MP vows not to cower down before the BJP and the central agency; Shiv Sena's Aaditya Thackeray and NCP's Dilip Walse Patil come out in support of him

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

THE Enforcement Directorate (ED) on Tuesday attached Shiv Sena Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Raut's properties at Alibaug and Dadar in connection with the Patra Chawl land scam.

Eight land parcels in Alibaug and a flat in Mumbai's Dadar suburb linked to Raut and his family were attached under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act.

Raut accused the Centre of pursuing 'vendetta politics' saying that the ED action took place because he did not support the BJP in 2019 to form the government with the Shiv Sena. The ruling Maharashtra Vikas Aghadi also came out in support of Raut, with Sena's Aaditya Thackeray and NCP's Dilip Walse Patil accusing the BJP of targeting the alliance.

"I am a Shiv Sainik of Balasaheb Thackeray, and will not bow and succumb to the BJP and its stooge — central agencies. If BJP proves that the charges levelled by the ED under the money laundering act are true, then I will permanently leave politics and donate property to BJP. We have bought the properties with our hard-earned money. The BJP is targeting the middle-class Marathi manoos through the central agencies," Raut said.

Later, Aaditya Thackeray said the series of ED actions against non-BJP leaders raises questions whether democracy was left in the country. "Why only Maha Vikas Aghadi leaders and ministers are targeted by central agencies? It is a political vendetta by BJP against Mava Vikas Aghadi government in Maharashtra."

Home Minister Dilip Walse Patil said that BJP wants to topple the Mava Vikas Aghadi and was blatantly misusing the central agencies against MVA leaders. "The ED action against Raut is nothing but vendetta politics," Patil said.

AAP minister faces ED heat as well

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

DELHI health minister Satyendar Jain became the latest entrant in the list of non-BJP leaders to face ED action.

The central agency on Tuesday said that it attached assets worth ₹4.81 crore of the senior AAP leader in a "money-laundering probe" launched against him in 2018. In a statement, the ED said it has issued a provisional order under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) for the attachment of the assets.

The ED had earlier questioned the AAP leader in connection with the case.

According to the officials, the named persons in the attachment order are associates and family members of Jain. The case stems from an August 2017 FIR filed by the CBI against him and others on charges of alleged possession of disproportionate assets. The CBI has claimed that Jain purchased 200 bighas of agricultural land in the names of companies controlled by him in Delhi in five years preceding 2018 and "laundered black money" to the tune of several crores.

It had alleged that Jain controlled these companies in the past either in the form of being one of the directors or by holding one-third of shares of these companies in his name or in the names of family members or others.

The AAP reacted strongly to the ED action.

"The BJP is afraid of our expansion across the country. Given the way the Kejriwal Model is being accepted throughout India, we expected that the BJP will use agencies against the opposition as usual," it said. "They registered more than a hundred cases against our MLAs and ministers and each one has been dismissed in court. We are sure this case will also be dismissed very soon."

But, the BJP said that after a long inquest, the ED has attached huge property of the minister, which shows that Jain has "ill-gotten wealth". "It will be morally correct for AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal to dismiss his tainted minister," BJP spokesperson Praveen Kapoor said.

SC AGREES TO HEAR TMC LEADER'S PLEA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN a relief to Abhishek Banerjee, the Supreme Court on Tuesday agreed to hear the plea of the TMC general secretary and his wife next week. In his plea, Banerjee challenged a Delhi High Court order that refused to quash the summons issued by the ED in a money laundering probe.

The ED had lodged a case under various provisions of the PMLA based on a November 2020 FIR registered by the CBI that alleged a multi-crore coal pilferage scam related to Eastern Coalfields Ltd mines in Kunustoria and Kajora areas.

Banerjee and his wife have also urged that they be probed at Kolkata and granted exemption from personal appearance. Rujira, Banerjee's wife, has requested that she be allowed to appear through her lawyer in the trial court.

The petitioners contended that the high court had erroneously dismissed their writ petition.

Rujira had a reasonable and legitimate expectation to be treated fairly by the investigating agency, the petition says, adding that the ED instead of responding to her repeated requests chose to prosecute her and compelled her to appear in Delhi. "The impugned order fails to appreciate that the petitioners are permanent residents of Kolkata. It also fails to appreciate that the entire alleged cause of action and the place of alleged offence, is in the State of West Bengal."

Earlier, the HC dismissed their petition stating that allegations of mala fide intentions have to be proved by them and they should not be based conjectures and surmises.

Haryana Assembly rakes up SYL, transfer of Hindi areas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chandigarh

THE Haryana Assembly on Tuesday passed a resolution seeking completion of the Sutlej Yamuna Link (SYL) Canal and transfer of Hindi-speaking areas from Punjab. The resolution also rejected the neighbouring state's claim over Chandigarh.

The one-day special session was held days after Punjab passed a resolution seeking immediate transfer of Chandigarh to the state.

Moving the resolution, Haryana CM Manohar Lal Khattar appealed to the Centre not to take any steps until all concerns related to the Punjab Reorganisation Act were addressed. All parties, including the BJP and its allies and Independent MLAs, backed the resolution, which was adopted unanimously after a three-hour debate.

Urging the Central government to take measures for the construction of the SYL Canal in compliance with the Supreme Court order, the resolution stated, "The right of Haryana to share waters of Ravi and Beas rivers by the construction of the SYL Canal (SYL) is historically, legally, judicially and constitutionally established over time. This August House has unanimously on at least seven occasions passed resolutions urging the early completion of the canal. Several agreements, accords, tribunal's findings and judgments of the highest judiciary of the nation have all singularly upheld the claim of Haryana to the waters and directed the completion of the SYL canal. In defiance and contrary to these directions and agreements, legislations were enacted by Punjab to deny the rightful claims of Haryana."

Raising the issue of transfer of Hindi-speaking areas to Haryana, the resolution stated that the Indira Gandhi Agreement, the Rajiv Longowal Accord and the Venkatramaiah Commission had all accepted the state's claim over such areas within the territory of Punjab.

Reacting to Haryana's move, Shiromani Akali Dal said the Assembly was trying to obfuscate the issue of transfer of Chandigarh by passing resolutions instead of demanding a separate capital for the state.

ONCE DONE, SYL CANAL WILL BENEFIT TWO STATES

When Haryana was carved out from undivided Punjab in 1966, sharing of river waters became a bone of contention. Punjab was opposed to sharing waters of Ravi and Beas, citing river sharing principles

In 1981, the Indira Gandhi govt at the Centre negotiated a tripartite agreement between Punjab, Haryana and Rajasthan; the share of each state was fixed after assessment of available supply of the waters

On April 8, 1982, Indira Gandhi launched the construction of the SYL Canal, but the Akalis started an agitation against the project

In July 1985, then PM Rajiv Gandhi and then Akali Dal chief Sant Harchand Singh Longowal signed an accord under which a new tribunal was to be set up assess the water share of each state

The Eradi Tribunal headed by Supreme Court Judge V Balakrishna Eradi, after reassessing availability of water, recommended the shares of Punjab and Haryana to be 5 million acre feet and 3.83 million acre feet, respectively, in 1987

The canal was one of the factors blamed for militancy in Punjab; even Longowal was killed within a month of signing of the accord

In 2004, Punjab enacted a legislation terminating pacts related to sharing of river waters with Haryana and other states

On November 10, 2016, the Supreme Court, held the Punjab Termination of Agreement Act unconstitutional. It also said that the SYL Canal has to be completed

Mann asks officers to reach out to people on ground

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

PUNJAB Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann on Monday asked the Deputy Commissioners to regularly convene outdoor meetings especially in villages to ensure on the spot redressal of people's grievances.

Mann asked them to organize special camps along with teams of officials in villages and towns for prompt resolution of pending issues in a result oriented manner.

"You are the real face of the government because people have direct interface with you... They place unflinching trust and confidence in you," he told the senior officers.

He also told them to conduct surprise checks at the Saanjh Kendras and to provide citizen centric services seamlessly.

To reward the work of Divisional Commissioners, DCs, SSPs, SDMs and other field officials, he announced to honour officers/officials with the 'Best Performing Award' for motivating them to serve the people with a zeal.

In related issues, Mann set a target for the authorities to start and upgrade all the drug de-addiction and rehabilitation centres in all the districts within a month.

"Rehabilitation of drug addicts is of paramount significance and will help them lead a life of self-respect," he asserted.

The CM also assured the Deputy Commissioners of complete autonomy to discharge their duties while ensuring minimal political pressure. He, however, said that due respect and basic courtesies must be extended to the elected representatives and to the people.

While reviewing the status of wheat procurement, Mann asked the DGP to intensify vigil. Unscrupulous traders often bring wheat clandestinely to sell in mandis across the state on MSP, he said, adding that the DGP should deploy 24X7 videography teams on nakas till the end of procurement season.

Tired of waiting: Cryptic post by Ahmed Patel's son

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

FAISAL PATEL, the son of late Congress leader Ahmed Patel, on Tuesday dropped hints that his patience was running thin as there was no encouragement from the top brass.

To push his candidature, Faisal also met Congress veteran AK Antony, who is the trusted lieutenant of party chief Sonia Gandhi.

"Tired of waiting around. No encouragement from the top brass. Keeping my options open," Faisal posted in a tweet which comes ahead of the Gujarat election. Later, he tweeted photos of his meeting with Antony.

Party sources said he wants to contest in Gujarat and has no political experience but added that he is the son of Sonia's former political advisor. A Gujarat Congress leader said Faisal has no ground connection with people as well as with party workers.

Faisal had announced that he would not join politics and instead work for the downtrodden after his father's demise in 2020. But last year, Faisal made a turnaround saying that he would enter electoral politics if the party high command desired.

BIHAR'S main opposition, the Rashtriya Janata Dal, is trying to fish in troubled waters. Senior RJD leader met Jamui MP Chirag Paswan and expressed his concern over 'ill-treatment' meted out to him and his family during the eviction in New Delhi last week.

Though both Rajak and Chirag described the meeting a routine event, their unscheduled meeting and its timing created ripples in political circles. Political circles are abuzz with the news that RJD's chief minister's face Tejashwi Prasad and Chirag are coming closer day after day.

Tejashwi thanked Chirag for lending his support to the RJD candidate Subodh Kumar from Hajipur in the Legislative Council election.

The RJD is also trying to woo Vikassheel Insaan Party chief Mukesh Sahani, who is sore over with the BJP following his sacking from the Cabinet. Both Chirag and Sahani were at the receiving end after being sidelined by the BJP, which is now the single largest party in the assembly with 77 members.

CM promises dole but with riders in Assembly bypoll

Raipur: "Save the Date" — the message by Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel on his Twitter handle apparently refers to an atypical pledge for gaining the trust of voters ahead of the Khairagarh Assembly bypoll. "On April 16 Khairagarh will get a Congress MLA. On April 17, Khairagarh-Chuikhadan-Gandai will become a (new) district," Baghel tweeted. The counting of votes will take place on April 16. The promise on creating a new district is among the 29 other pledges the Congress has cited in its poll declaration, if the party candidate wins the by-election.

Cabinet reshuffle soon, home ministry likely to go to Cong

Mumbai: A Cabinet reshuffle is likely to take place soon in Maharashtra. According to sources, the Maha Vikas Aghadi government has completed more than two years and it was the right time to reshuffle the ministries. The NCP and the Congress are likely to swap the portfolios of home ministry and Assembly speaker. "Shiv Sena and Congress are miffed that the home department has failed to act against BJP leaders. On the contrary, central agencies are slapping notices and putting Aghadi ministers in jail under various pretexts," said a senior leader.

ASSAM

AAP sets its sights on gaining ground in Northeast region

Guwahati: Enthused by the Punjab election results, the AAP has set its sights on Assam among other states. The party is viewing the upcoming Guwahati Municipal Council (GMC) elections as the springboard as it tries to strengthen its base in Assam. It is contesting in 39 of the 60 wards. In the civic elections held last month, the AAP had opened its account by winning two wards in Tinsukia and Lakhimpur. For 10 years since it had spread its wings to Assam in 2012, the party remained largely moribund. The success in Punjab made it step up its activities in the BJP-ruled state.

Dog squad credited for country liquor seizures

The dog squad of the Bihar police has played a significant role not only in detection of criminal incidents but also in seizure of alcohol. A report released by the police headquarters revealed that 341 smugglers were arrested and over 20,000 litres of country liquor seized with the help of sniffer dogs. In addition, 1,537 litres of foreign liquor were also confiscated after being detected by the trained dogs. At present, the dog squad has a total of 107 dogs. Of them, 30 were sniffer dogs, 24 trackers, 17 trained in detection of liquor and four in narcotics. Besides, they have credited with detection of live bombs planted at Gandhi Maidan in Patna on October 27, 2013 ahead of the public meeting addressed by Narendra Modi and cases of murder, dacoity, house robbery and illegal arms in Nawada and other places.

Students benefit from Gita: Muslim teacher

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

LONG before Bhagavad Gita was included in the syllabus for Classes 6-12 in Gujarat, a Muslim school teacher has been imparting its lessons to his students in Surat's Mangrol taluka.

Shah Mohammad Saeed, a teacher on duty at Zakharda Primary School, is engaged with the school for the last 12 years. From the beginning, he succeeded in educating the children about culture without any religious barriers.

Both Hindu and Muslim children are taught Gita in the school | EXPRESS

"We have been teaching Gita to all school children since 2012. Children everyday read one page of Gita at their home and explain it to their classmates the next day," he says. '

"On Sunday, we reach a house in the village where children and I recite the Gita outside the house. People come to listen to the shlokas. This is how the Gita is recited in the whole village today."

Saeed says that there was not a single Gita in the village when he first arrived. "I brought the copies of Gita for so many people," he recollects

As for the school, children are introduced to the chapters, right from Class 1 to Class 5. There are about 72 children from both Hindu and Muslim communities and all are taught chapters from the Gita.

Regarding the benefits of reading the Gita, Saeed says it helps in inculcating good manners — a fact concurred by the village sarpanch Jagdish Vasava who said the children are now helping the needy in their own way.

At UN, Russian military accused of war crimes

Calls for accountability for atrocities against civilians | Seeks Russia's exclusion from UN body

BUCHA

UKRAINIAN President Volodymyr Zelenskyy accused the Russians of gruesome atrocities in Ukraine and told the UN Security Council on Tuesday that those responsible should immediately be brought up on war crimes charges in front of a tribunal like the one set up at Nuremberg after World War II.

Zelenskyy, appearing via video from Ukraine, said that civilians had been shot in the back of the head after being tortured, blown up with grenades in their apartments and crushed to death by tanks while in cars.

"They cut off limbs, cut their throats. Women were raped and killed in front of their children. Their tongues were pulled out only because their aggressor did not hear what they wanted to hear from them," he said, recounting what he described as the worst atrocities since World War II.

Over the past few days, grisly images of what appeared to be civilian massacres carried out by Russian forces on the outskirts of Kyiv before they pulled back from the capital have stirred global revulsion and led Western nations to expel dozens of Moscow's diplomats and propose further sanctions, including a ban on coal imports from Russia.

He said that both those who carried out the killings and those who gave the orders "must be brought to justice immediately for war crimes" in front of a tribunal similar to what was used in postwar Germany.

Reiterating what the Kremlin has been saying for days, Moscow's UN ambassador, Vassily Nebenzia, denied Russian troops targeted civilians and said the horrors depicted had been staged by the Ukrainians.

"You only saw what they showed you," he said. "The only ones who would fall for this are Western dilettantes."

Zelenskyy stressed that Bucha was only one place and that there are more with similar horrors.

"The Russian military searched for and purposefully killed anyone who served our country. They shot and killed women outside their houses when they just tried to call someone who is alive. They killed families, adults and children, and they tried to burn the bodies," he said. AP

NATO CHIEF SAYS MORE ATROCITIES MAY SURFACE

Brussels: NATO Secretary General Jens Stoltenberg said he expects more atrocities to come to light in Ukraine. Stoltenberg said that "we haven't seen everything that has taken place because Russia still controls most of these territories" around Kyiv. "But when and if they withdraw their troops and Ukrainian troops take over, I'm afraid they will see more mass graves, atrocities and more examples of of war crimes." He rejected Russian assertions of atrocities being staged. AP

RUSSIA USED CLUSTER BOMBS IN UKRAINE: UN

UN: A top UN official told the Security Council including Moscow's envoy on Tuesday of "credible" claims Russia has used indiscriminate cluster munitions two dozen times in populated parts of Ukraine. "OHCHR has received credible allegations that Russian forces have used cluster munitions in populated areas at least 24 times," UN undersecretary-general for political and peacebuilding affairs, Rosemary DiCarlo, said. AFP

FY22 auto sales fall 25% over FY20

Industry sees no respite as Russia-Ukraine crisis disturbs supply chain, pushes fuel prices

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

TOTAL auto retail sales in the financial year 2022 stood at 1,63,75,799 units, down 25% when compared with FY20 sales, according to data released by Fada.

In FY20, when the auto industry was impacted by slower economic growth and transition towards BSVI emission norms, total retail sales came at 2,17,78,574 units. However, when compared with the Covid-19-hit low base of FY21 (1,52,74,314 units), retail auto sales last fiscal logged a growth of 7%. Fada anticipates the auto industry will come out of the woods and reach pre-pandemic highs by FY2024.

In the last fiscal, Passenger Vehicles (PV) retail sales witnessed a jump of 14% YoY at 27,26,047 units while two-wheeler (2W) sales stood at 1,19,73,415 units, up 4% YoY. When compared with FY20 sales, PV sales in FY22 were down by 2% and 2W sales were down by 29%.

All India Vehicle Retail Sales

| Category | FY22 | FY20 | % change (FY20) |
|---|---|---|---|
| 2W | 1,19,73,415 | 1,68,46,527 | -28.93% |
| PV | 27,26,047 | 27,74,340 | -1.74% |
| Total (includes Tractor, CV, others as well) | 1,63,75,799 | 2,17,78,574 | -24.81% |

In March 2022, retail auto sales during the month stood at 16,19,181 units as against 23,12,868 units sold in March 2020. While this is a 30% drop, on an annual basis, it fell by just 3% as total sales in March 2021 stood at 16,66,996 units. Going ahead, the industry does not see respite as Russia-Ukraine conflict has disturbed the supply chain and pushed fuel prices to record high.

Vinkesh Gulati, president, Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations (FADA), said that the near-term outlook for Indian Auto Industry continues to remain a challenge as the ongoing Russia Ukraine war and China lockdown does not hint towards a smooth path.

"Crude is on a boil and hence fuel prices have been raised by around ₹10. This will continue to rise and further hit sentiments on lowering the spending. Along with this, increase in raw material costs have made OEMs increase the prices of their vehicles. While no dent in terms of demand has been seen in the PV segment, it will definitely have its impact on the 2W segment which is an extremely price sensitive market," He said.

"Precious metals and neon gas which comes from the war hit zone will further slow the supply of semiconductors thus making waiting periods longer for PVs. Overall, Fada remains extremely cautious in terms of any recovery in sight until the Russia Ukraine war and China lockdown comes to an end."

MONITORING POLITICAL, ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENTS: IMF

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) said on Tuesday that it is monitoring political and economic developments in Sri Lanka "very closely" as public unrest in the island nation grows amid its worst economic crisis in decades. President Gotabaya Rajapaksa on Monday dissolved the cabinet and appointed a new finance minister, while also seeking a new central bank governor. "IMF staff is looking forward to program discussions with the authorities, including during the visit of the newly appointed Finance Minister to Washington later this month," IMF Sri Lanka mission chief Masahiro Nozaki told Reuters in an emailed statement. Meanwhile, Sri Lankan shares broke their six-day losing streak on Tuesday, as President Gotabaya Rajapaksa's ruling coalition lost its majority in parliament amid growing unrest over the country's worst economic crisis in decades. At the close of trade, the CSE All-Share index settled 5.99% higher at 8,738.08 points.

JAPAN

HOUSEHOLD SPENDS UP, PRICE RISES WEIGH ON OUTLOOK

Japan's household spending rose for a second consecutive month year-on-year in February, helped by a flattering comparison with last year's sharp pandemic-induced slump but the consumer sector is now facing growing headwinds from soaring prices. Households cut spending from the previous month as pandemic curbs, rapid food and fuel price rises and the coronavirus kept wallets shut, casting a shadow over the world's third-largest economy. In a sign of trouble for consumer sentiment, real wage growth stagnated in February as global inflationary pressures weighed on household purchasing power. "Prices will outpace wage gains from now on, so consumption will be on a sluggish trend," said Takeshi Minami, chief economist at Norinchukin Research Institute. "While service spending is expected to pick up from April onwards, the likelihood is big that higher prices will weigh on other areas of consumption," Minami added. Household spending increased 1.1% in February from a year earlier, government data showed. The month-on-month figures showed a sharp 2.8% decline, also weaker than a forecast 1.5% drop. The data raises some concerns for policymakers looking for ways to offset the hit households are taking from soaring global inflation and a weakening yen, which is pushing up import costs, as the economy shakes off the pandemic's drag.

ASIAN EQUITIES

FACE BIGGEST FOREIGN OUTFLOWS IN MARCH IN 2 YEARS

Asian equities witnessed steep foreign outflows in March, hit by worries over higher inflation as commodity prices soared due to an escalating conflict between Russia and Ukraine. According to Refinitiv data, cross-border investors sold Asian equities worth a net $16.23 billion in Taiwan, India, South Korea, the Philippines, Vietnam, Indonesia, and Thailand in the last month, the highest outflows since net selling of $33.32 billion in March 2020. In the first quarter of 2022, overseas investors sold regional equities worth a net $31.54 billion, the most since the first quarter of 2020. The brokerage said Asian equities are at a risk of quasi-stagflation, characterized by rising inflation and slowing growth, adding, regional equities delivered an average quarterly return of between -2% and -10% during such periods in the past. MSCI's broadest index of Asia-Pacific shares outside Japan has declined 4.7% so far this year. On Tuesday, the World Bank said it expected 2022 growth in the developing East Asia and Pacific (EAP) region, which includes China, to expand 5.0%, lower than its 5.4% forecast in October. Taiwan stocks saw the largest outflows in the region last month, with net sales of $9.59 billion, the biggest since March 2020.

Will comply with CCI suggestions, says Zomato

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

ZOMATO on Tuesday said that it would work closely with the Competition Commission of India (CCI) and assist them with their investigation in the allegation of anti-competitive practices. The anti-trust regulator on Monday ordered an investigation into the conduct of Zomato and Swiggy after the National Restaurant Association of India (NRAI) had made several allegations of anti-competitive practices by the two food delivery apps.

The listed food delivery firm Zomato informed exchanges that it would explain to the regulator why all its practices are in compliance with competition laws and do not have any adverse effect on competition in India. It further said the company intends to promptly comply with any recommendations of the Commission.

Zomato further informed that the commission had prima facie not found any concerns with respect to levy of commissions or alleged bundling of services, though the CCI would want to investigate aspects such as preferential listing of restaurant partners and pricing parity across platforms, etc. NRAI has alleged the two food delivery platforms force restaurants to use their food delivery services if they want to avail the listing services.

In their defence, Swiggy and Zomato have told CCI that the bundling is done to control the end-to-end service of the order placed through their respective apps with the objective of enhancing consumer welfare.

Meanwhile, NRAI has said it is happy the Commission found merit in its submission and passed an order to investigate the conduct of the platforms. It said the restaurant body has been engaging with both the platforms and government authorities in the past to resolve the pain points.

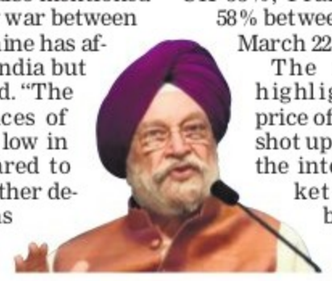
'Petrol prices in India up by 5% as against over 50% in some countries'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

PETROL prices in India have gone up by merely 5% as against over 50% in some of the developed countries, said the petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri on Tuesday in Lok Sabha.

The minister also mentioned that the ongoing war between Russia and Ukraine has affected not only India but all over the world. "The increase in prices of petrol was very low in India as compared to developed and other developing nations in the aftermath of the war. Petrol prices have gone up by over 50% in countries like the US, the UK, Canada, Germany, and Sri Lanka. In the case of India the increase worked out to be only 5%," said Puri.



The gasoline (petrol) price in the US has increased by 51%, Canada 52%, Germany 55%, UK 55%, France 50%, Spain 58% between April 2021 and March 22.

The minister also highlighted that the price of natural gas has shot up several times in the international market after the outbreak of the war. Meanwhile, petrol and diesel prices again hiked by 80 paise per litre each on Tuesday in the country. This is the 13th hike in transport fuel in the past 15 days by oil marketing companies. With this hike, the net increase on petrol and diesel prices is ₹9.20 per litre.

As per the price notification by fuel retailers, the price of petrol and diesel in Delhi is at ₹104.61 per litre and ₹95.87 per litre respectively. The price of transport fuel is revised by the OMCs on a daily basis, in line with International crude price. However, petrol and diesel prices were kept unchanged since November 4 last year when the government cut excise duty on petrol by ₹5 per litre and by ₹10 on diesel.

AMAZON- FRL

Call out transaction between Future, RIL: Amazon advocate

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

ARGUING against the alleged alienation of its assets by Future Retail Ltd (FRL), senior advocate Gopal Subramanium, representing Amazon, prayed that the "sham transaction" ought to be called out.

Ecommerce giant Amazon has alleged that FRL and Reliance colluded to enable the latter to take over hundreds of FRL's stores despite being aware that a Singapore arbitral tribunal had injuncted the alienation while upholding an emergency award blocking the ₹27500 crore deal between FRL and RIL. A single judge of the Delhi HC also held the order was enforceable and yet the transfer of stores had taken place, it alleged.

"They (FRL) have now said that 800 stores have been taken over by Reliance," argued Justice Subramanium. "Under what law has this happened. I feel speechless that I don't find anyone respecting the injunction....can anyone say that because there is someone called Reliance no courts can pass orders against them..." He referred to Future group having made a payment to overseas bondholders just days before its leases were taken over by Reliance for alleged non-payment of rent on them. He referred to FRL's contention that no assets would be alienated until NCLT passed a final order. "They say they have just 330 stores left.....this is all a lie," the advocate argued, adding, "I am stunned that someone has decided to take over the assets which are the subject matter of arbitration," referring to Reliance's takeover of stores.

> They (FRL) have now said that 800 stores have been taken over by Reliance. Under what law has this happened. I feel speechless that I don't find anyone respecting the injunction...
> Gopal Subramanium, senior advocate

Sources close to the Future group have refuted the allegations, saying collusion could happen only when all the colluders benefited. In the Future group-Reliance deal, not a single penny would flow to the promoter, but to the banks, and other creditors and vendors. In respect of the stores being taken over, FRL in a note to the stock exchanges said they would try to re-establish the status quo.

Parliament passes accountancy bill

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

RAJYA Sabha on Tuesday passed the Chartered Accountants, the Cost and Works Accountants and the Company Secretaries (Amendment) Bill, 2022 with Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman asserting that it will not impact the autonomy of these bodies.

Lok Sabha on March 30 had cleared this bill. The bill was passed in the backdrop of rising number of disciplinary cases against the members of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of India (ICAI), the Institute of Cost Accountants of India and the Institute of Company Secretaries of India (ICSI).

As per the provisions of the new bill, the Government will appoint non-members as the presiding officer of the disciplinary committees of the respective institutes. However, it is to be noted that these appointments would be made on the basis of the recommendations given by the Council of these three bodies.

"The objective is to bring all the three acts at par without affecting the autonomy which they enjoy... In last eight years, in supporting all the ecosystem for business and start-ups. Stand-Up India and Start-Up India show that the companies are eager to register themselves as LLPs because of which the new environment is coming in. Now we see that requirement for regulating them also needs to be robust," Sitharaman said in Rajya Sabha.

"No change at all in the composition of the Council responsible for the management of the affairs of the institutes...In the proposed amendment, the council shall continue to constitute these bodies as per the existing practice. Government will not constitute them. There will also be no change in the number of members of these bodies," Sitharaman added.

RCB lower-order batters help team pull off thrilling heist over RR

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

Dinesh Karthik (R) and Shahbaz Ahmad put together a 67-run partnership of 33 balls to guide Bangalore home against Rajasthan | SPORTZPICS

THE 15th edition of the IPL might be in its early stages, but some teams have drawn attention with their approach. One of them being Rajasthan Royals, who came into their fixture against Royal Challengers Bangalore at the Wankhede Stadium on Tuesday, with back-to-back wins. Their philosophy has been quite simple, especially their batters going after the bowling. Scores of 210 and 193 are an indication of their strength in the first two matches.

However, the surface at the venue was a tad different. The ball did not come onto the bat for the Royals batters to play their natural game. In all, Bangalore bowlers had to show discipline against a strong batting line-up, which included Jos Buttler. The opener finished with a flurry of sixes at the end to score a 47-ball 70 and help their team end up with 169/3. But his innings was overshadowed by the brilliance of Dinesh Karthik in the second innings. The man from Tamil Nadu stole the show with a stunning 23-ball 44 to steer his team to a four-wicket victory from a difficult situation. He received some major support from Shahbaz Ahmed, who came up with one of his best innings in RCB colours, scoring a 26-ball 45 in the win.

The target was always going to be a tricky one, and Bangalore openers — Faf Du Plessis and Anuj Rawat — played positive cricket. They went at eight runs per over during the powerplay, but the introduction of Yuzvendra Chahal, who was let go by RCB ahead of the auction, made matters difficult. The leg-spinner brought his A game to dismiss Faf Du Plessis and when Virat Kohli was run out via the Chahal/Sanju Samson combination, Bangalore were on the backfoot. As Chahal clean bowled David Willey, and Trent Boult sent back Sherfane Rutherford, all eyes were on Karthik, who walked in at number seven in the 13th over.

The required rate was above 11 runs per over, but the wicketkeeper batter, who has been in rich six-hitting form, decided to take on the bowlers from the first few balls he faced. He started to time the ball brilliantly, and when R Ashwin conceded 21 runs in the 14th over, the hopes in the RCB dressing room also visibly increased. There was an element of confidence in his batting as Karthik began to play audacious shots, including sweeps to paceman Navdeep Saini. With Shahbaz also scoring quick runs, the required run rate dropped to a gettable nine per over.

As the partnership between Karthik and Shahbaz crossed the 50-run mark, Bangalore were in the driver's seat as they needed 32 from 24 balls. After playing a quiet Chahal over, Shahbaz took on Boult for a four and a six before falling prey to the Kiwi speedster and RCB eventually won with five balls to spare as Harshal Patel hit the winning six.

Though the finishing touches might have been applied by the duo, one needs to applaud the platform laid by Rawat and Faf at the top too. More importantly, their bowlers, including Harshal deserves some praise for his bowling in the first innings. He played an integral role in keeping big hitter Buttler and Hetmyer quiet too. He ended with figures of 1/18 in four overs.

Brief scores: RR 169/3 in 20 ovs (Buttler 70 n.o, Hetmyer 42 n.o, Harshal 1/18, Willey 1/29) lost to RCB 173/6 in 19.1 ovs (Ahmed 45, Karthik 44, Chahal 2/15).

Powar's future as coach under the lens

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

THE future of India women's team head coach Ramesh Powar's future hangs in the balance even as his term has come to an end after the World Cup in New Zealand. Although when the BCCI advertised for the post last year, it said the new coach will have a tenure of two years, it is understood that Powar was handed only one year contract which could be extended by a year.

Since India's group stage-exit at the recently concluded 50-over World Cup in New Zealand, Powar's position has come under scrutiny. After taking over the team in May 2021 from WV Raman, Powar is yet to win a series with the team in any format. In the ODIs, India lost 2-1 in England, 2-1 in Australia and 4-1 in New Zealand before the World Cup. And at the marquee event, the team's performance came under even more scrutiny, especially with selection calls where Shafali Verma was dropped just after just one match. Similarly, the decision to slot three left-handers in the match against New Zealand also came under lens as it literally played into the strengths of the hosts.

It is understood that the BCCI is not in a rush as of now and will take the feedback of the players in the coming days. Powar was never a popular choice among the players when he was reappointed in 2021 as they were expecting Raman to continue till the World Cup. However, based on the recommendations from the selection panel, the BCCI opted for a change of coach.

The decision to go back to Powar did raise eyebrows then as he had fallen out with a few players including captain Mithali Raj. It is understood that several players even contemplated approaching the BCCI about their grievances as far back as England tour in June, but were advised against it.

In case the BCCI is looking to move on from Powar, a section of selection committee feels the time is right to appoint a woman for his role. Similarly, while the BCCI's advertisement in 2021 said the head coach of the women's team will oversee the A team and Under-19, going forward the roles being separated is a definite possibility, especially with the U-19 World Cup to played in January 2023. There are talks to have a separate person for this role, but it could also be handed over to VVS Laxman, who is the head of cricket at the NCA. The BCCI is also planning to have a meeting with Powar in the days ahead.

Real Madrid face an away test against defending champions Chelsea at Stamford Bridge in the first leg of the Champions League quarterfinals while Villarreal look to script another upset against Bayern. A look at Wednesday's ties...

CHELSEA VS REAL MADRID

Real will likely be without coach Carlo Ancelotti for the first leg because of Covid-19. It is a huge match for Ancelotti as he has been a target of criticism after a demoralizing 4-0 loss against Barcelona at home last month. Chelsea, on the other hand, have had their share of off-field problems with the club up for sale. In their recent outing, they were shocked 1-4 by Brentford. They'll be determined to bounce back and make their home advantage count against Real.

VILLARREAL VS BAYERN

Villarreal have been the biggest surprise so far, getting through to the quarterfinals for the first time since 2009. Eliminating Juventus in the last 16 shows how dangerous Unai Emery's team could be against Bayern, who are looking to become European champions for the seventh time. However, the Spanish club are entering the tie on the back of two defeats in La Liga.

Kirpal breaks long-standing nat'l record in discus throw

MARTIN JOSEPH @ Kochi

A record that stood for 22 years was rewritten on the penultimate day of the 25th National Federation Cup senior athletics competition at the CH Muhammed Koya stadium in Thenhipalam on Tuesday. Kirpal Singh Batth threw a distance of 61.83m in the discus throw event as he re-wrote Anil Kumar's long-standing record of 59.55m.

The 29-year-old came into the meet without having breached the 60m mark before, with his best being 59.74m, but such was his consistency that he kept breaching the mark with regular consistency.

The Punjab athlete was in top form as he managed to throw past the 60m on four occasions and was well ahead of the chasing pack with Haryana's Parshant Malik finishing a distant second with his best attempt yielding a distance of 54.11m. Two of Kirpal's throws also went on to sail past the 61m mark.

Meanwhile, Swapna Barman retained her gold in the heptathlon event as she finished comfortably ahead of second-placed Mareena George. Swapna finished with 5800 points while her nearest competitor Mareena was 551 points behind her.

The 400m hurdles saw the likes of MP Jabir and Dharun Ayyasamy in action and it was the Kerala athlete who finished with the best time in the qualifiers. Jabir clocked a time of 51.83s while Dharun was not too far behind at 51.99s. Tamil Nadu's Santosh Kumar also produced an impressive run and finished with a time of 52.52s to set-up an exciting final.

The pole vault final turned out to be a closely fought affair with as many as four participants managing to clear 4.90m. Siva S, Gokul Nath, Gnana Sone and Deppak Yadav all managed to produce a performance of 4.90m. With the likes of Hima Das, Priya Mohan and Aishwarya Mishra all being in action in the 200m heats, there was a lot of competition across the field.

Aishwarya went on to produce the best timings in the heats with a time of 23.57s while Priya, who had decided to skip her pet 400m run at the Fed Cup, finished with a time of 24.00s. Hima managed a time of 24.06s with the final set to be held on Wednesday.

American singer Maryanne J George walked the Grammys red carpet in a black and golden printed saree, a creation by celebrated designer Masaba Gupta, who feels that the South Asian culture is finally being represented globally

WORLD-over people have been glued to the Grammy 2022 goings-on. While the choice of awards have got mixed reactions, the mega show turned out to be a head-turner in terms of fashion. Dressed in a black and white Armani Privé gown, Lady Gaga led the pack, while Dua Lipa pulled-off a classic look with an Atelier Versace outfit. But what caught the attention of the South Asian audience was American singer Maryanne J George walking the red carpet in a saree. The black and gold six-yard creation was from House of Masaba by fashion designer Masaba Gupta.

The raw silk printed saree with a pink-coloured pallu has different kinds of motifs – flowers (hibiscus), parrot and a flower-bud. Keeping the vibe traditional, George put her hair up in a bun. The singer, indeed, looked a million bucks in the drape.

In fact, George was one of the few South Asian Female nominees for a Grammy and went onto win an award with her Maverick City Music collective. And Gupta is proud to have played some part. "I am incredibly proud to have Maryanne J George walk the Grammy red carpet in the House of Masaba Saree. It makes me feel happy and surreal, especially when the South Asian representation in the global space has taken centre stage in the discussion. I am thrilled that an Indian brand made its mark at a globally-acclaimed event," says Gupta, who has flagship store on Lavelle Road. Earlier, we had seen rapper Cardi B in Gaurav Gupta's couture, for her music video, a remix of hit song No Love, as well as Megan Thee Stallion walking the ramp at Oscars in Gupta's label.

Called 'Black All Star Saree', priced at ₹18,000, is currently available on the website and has seen a huge surge in demand. Gupta's collections have always stood out with their quirky motifs and play of bright colours.

Earlier, House of Masaba made news when global show Emily in Paris S2 featured a jacket from the brand. Not just in the fashion world, Gupta has been making waves in OTT streaming too. Netflix mockumentary series Masaba Masaba – featuring her and her actor mother Neena Gupta – is gearing up for its Season 2. Apart from this, she will also be seen in a short film where she plays a fictional character.

City-based jewellers give the lowdown on trending looks from the Oscars and Grammys and what designs are here to stay

Set in style

MONIKA MONALISA

DOJA Cat's solitaire necklace on the red carpet at the Grammys or Zendaya's solitaire bracelets during the Academy Awards... fine jewellery has been making power statements at big-ticket events recently. The trends have now trickled into Bengaluru with many women opting for minimal jewellery over heavier styles. And catering to this set are home-grown brands.

Take, for instance, Rajni Nayak, co-founder of jewellery brand Mon Tresor, who feels fine jewellery is turning into statement pieces. "Necklaces that sit well on the collar bone or above seem to be the latest trend. The ones that were worn by Olivia Rodrigo, Halsey, Saweetie, Rachel Zegler to name a few complimented their attire," explains Nayak. Co-founder of the brand, Meghaa Tulsyan, adds that "drop or hanging diamond earrings which have always been a classic at every red carpet event seem to continue being favourites."

While timeless jewellery was the showstopper this time, there were subtle pieces that added to the drama. According to Neha S Aroraa, founder of The Mauve Unitx, actor Kristen Stewart's statement necklace was one of the stand-out pieces at the Oscar red carpet. "She wore a pearl-layered necklace which looked very elegant. She also has a versatile style and she is ready to experiment," says Aroraa, adding that she connected with most of the looks since her brand caters to similar designs, prices of which start at ₹5,000.

While gold has been an all-time favourite in India, millennials are moving away from that trend by adapting a minimal jewellery look. According to Biniti Arora, founder of Srishti Fine Jewelry, millennials are 'trend changers' by opting for fine jewellery. "We have observed that in Bengaluru, the customers who walk into our store are looking for pieces that can be worn across occasions and events," says Biniti, adding, "Additionally, women are looking for daily-wear pieces that are minimal. Even men's jewellery is gaining popularity, something we see as a potential market."

B'lureans participated in large numbers at the 10th Goa Swimathon which concluded recently

Riding a victory wave

SANATH PRASAD

PIC : ENDURO SPORTS GOA

IF you thought Goa was just a holiday destination for travellers, then you are mistaken. From Ironman to swimathons, Goa is also a destination for sports enthusiasts. With an overcast sky and moderate tides, the recently-concluded 10th Goa Swimathon organised by Enduro Sports at the Bambolim beach, turned out to be an exciting one, especially for Bengalureans. The event witnessed around 333 swimmers, out of which 114 swimmers – the largest contingent – were from Bengaluru. Most of them ended up as podium finishers and winners in different age categories. From youngest swimmer Harshini Chander (17), winning the 1km race, to the oldest swimmer Lalitha Vijayaraghavan (71), winning the same race under the 60+ age category, the Bengaluru contingent had a lot to celebrate. Interestingly, the podium finishers were honoured with traditional Goan art photo frames as a token of gesture and in order to promote the creations of local artisans.

> I was scared ahead of the competition because I only have experience of swimming in open lakes. This was my maiden open-sea competition
> Harshini Chander, student

Chander, who is studying in Class 12, felt that the salt content dehydrated her during the competition. "I was scared ahead of the competition because I only have experience of swimming in open lakes, this was my maiden open-sea competition. Although I did not feel any difference, the salt content dehydrated me. I trained by myself for three-four days a week before the competition," says Chander.

For a Bengalurean, the sea is a distant cry. Looking at it as a different experience, Mohan Rao, 63, who secured third place in the 4km race under the 60+ age category, says, "I don't compete to win. I have always banked on my pace and the effort to better my timing in every competition," says Rao.

Vijayaraghavan, who started swimming at the age of 12, is still a competitive swimmer. In the 10th Goa Swimathon, Vijayaraghavan registered her win in the 1-km race under the 60+ age category. "It was tough to maintain a consistent swimming routine over the last few years due to the lockdowns. However, I underwent rigorous training for at least 80 minutes a day before the competition. I finished the race in 42 minutes, the sea was churning out mild and moderate-level tides which was not so challenging," says Vijayaraghavan, who is gearing up to participate in swimming in the Pan-India Master Games in May this year.

Tanvi Chandawarkar, 29, who finished second in the 1km race under the 25-39 age category, went into the swimathon not expecting to win, but to enjoy it. "This is my maiden open-seawater swim and I felt I was able to swim effortlessly because of the buoyancy. I was just certified as an underwater scuba diver in Puducherry last year and that boosted my confidence to swim in the open sea," says Chandawarkar, a chef in a city hotel.

VIPARITA NAMASKAR UTTANA PADASANA

(REVERSE PRAYER INTENSE LEG STRETCH)

This is an intense stretch of the legs. As part of a spiritual practice, this asana is thought to encourage peace and ease feelings of irritation. It is also believed to open up the Visuddha (throat) Chakra, as the neck is lengthened in the fullest expression of the pose. As blood flow is increased to the heart and neck, it is thought to encourage love and self-assurance. This pose is spiritually associated with the Ajna (third eye) Chakra. This asana generally occurs at the end of the practice of all the inverted poses.

- Inhale, raise your legs off the floor extending them to a 45-degree angle. The feet remain together and toes point towards the ceiling.
- While exhaling, bring the arms backward and keep palms together in a Namaskar position and ankles are crossed.

- Balance the body on the crown of the head and hips.
- Hold the pose for about six breaths.
- Inhale and bring the arms to the front, relax the head on the floor.
- Exhale bringing the legs to the floor and relax in a supine pose.

'I have never felt so alone'

TURNING PAGES

I AM lying on a carpet on the floor in my sister's guest bedroom, trying to sleep. I have given up on the bed; it has given me no respite. Radhika and Amanda come in to check on me at intervals. The next morning, I go down to my mother's flat in the same family building, Piramal House, and spend my day cleaning and sorting piles of books. It keeps my body occupied without asking too much of my mind. When too many thoughts take over, I crouch in the guest bathroom and record them on my voice recorder, only to be deleted later. Mom, Radhika and Amit update each other on my progress through phone calls and taking turns to be with me. Back home, my mother-in-law, Aai, father-in-law, Baba, and Amit are taking care of the kids and the home. We are very fortunate with our household staff — each one has been with us for years and has a vital role in keeping the household going, whatever the weather. My maternal, rustic nanny, Champabai, and my versatile cook-and-housekeeper, Ramu, are particularly adept at managing the children in my absence and ensuring that their routine is not disturbed. Within a few days, I'll be back.

Aparna Piramal Raje

There is no doubt that we are an unusual family! My parents Dilip and Gita are divorced. My father is remarried to Shalini and they have a young daughter, Priyadarshini. My sister Radhika is openly gay and has a wife, Amanda. And I am bipolar, married to Amit who, as I mentioned earlier, is from a different background.

But this is not what makes us unusual, in my opinion. What makes us — and our extended family — unusual is how we have embraced mental illness as a family. We have accepted it, evolved practices to negotiate it and learnt to not just live with it but to thrive with it, just like in the case of any other disease. This is what I call 'love therapy'. To share how we got there, I would like to share perspectives from members of my immediate and extended family. It was not possible to interview everyone, especially the younger generation, but I have tried to include as many individuals as possible.

Amit is my best friend, philosopher and guide, as the expression goes. When we got married, our varied backgrounds led many to speculate that our marriage may not work. Living in a global city such as London for the first two years of our marriage, away from Mumbai's social requirements, we found common ground, built a foundation for our marriage and really got to know each other.

Bipolarity has tested that partnership. Before our wedding, I described my mood swings to Amit in detail but it was not diagnosed as a disorder then. For the first few years, Amit associated my manic episodes with life circumstances rather than mental illness. He then realized, along with everyone else, that it was more than that.

He faced sleepless nights. Physical exhaustion. The irrationality of temporary insanity. Mood swings. Listening to your spouse tell you that she wants to break up with you. Managing young children with a demanding career. And he has been solid throughout. I am deeply grateful for his unconditional love and support. His innate stability and security ground me.

For Amit, '... the episodes for me initially were confusing because I didn't know what suddenly changed you. There was sometimes anger because you had two little children and you were sometimes ignoring them. And I was worried because I felt you were interacting with the wrong people and you could have been taken for a ride. Also worried about what would be going through the kids' minds. There was also sadness for you—you were just not the same person that I interacted with during normal times. There was tiredness; it's not easy to keep this going for days together. I think there was a time once in 2018 when I didn't sleep for a couple of days at a stretch...

'First, I managed it by force. Taking away your phone, taking away your laptop, changing the passwords. But later when I realized that this was a disease, thanks to Dr Deshpande, I realised that all these are futile ways of dealing with the situation. At first, I was shocked but then I gravitated towards empathy and compassion,' he says.

He relied on family support, especially Mom and Radhika, to help me get better. But as my spouse and primary caregiver, the mood swings have also left him with one important realization: 'I am alone and others can only guide me. The impact of actions and the related consequences are entirely on me and our kids. So every step is like stepping on an eggshell. I have never felt so alone as during the episodes...

Quirky Technique of Constrained Writing

PETER CAREY
WINNER OF THE BOOKER PRIZE
TRUE HISTORY OF THE KELLY GANG
GADSBY
50,000 WORD NOVEL WITHOUT THE LETTER "E"
THE CAT IN THE HAT
Dr. Seuss
ALPHABETICAL AFRICA Walter Abish

FLYLEAF

VR Ferose

(The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books)

CONSTRAINED writing is a literary technique that sees the writer bound by a condition that forbids something, or ensures a particular pattern. One of the most famous of these constraints is a 'lipogram', where a particular letter is forbidden. This seems easy when the letter in question is Q or Z, for example, but to really challenge yourself, you can ban the use of a much more common letter. Or the most common letter of all – E.

Gadsby is a 50,000-word novel by Ernest Vincent Wright which was published in 1939 and doesn't use the letter E at all. Wright spent five-and-a-half months writing on a typewriter with the 'e' key tied down so that it couldn't be used at all. A warehouse holding copies of the book burned down shortly after it was printed, destroying most copies of the ill-fated novel. The book was never reviewed but by word-of-mouth it has become an underground cult classic. The book's scarcity and oddness has seen copies priced at $4,000 by book dealers. Over time, this peculiar masterpiece has opened up many curious readers to this unusual reading experience. Later editions of the book have sometimes carried the alternative subtitle 50,000 Word Novel Without the Letter "E". Despite Wright's claim, however, published versions of the book may contain a handful of uses of the letter 'e'.

A Void by Georges Perec is another of the most famous lipogrammatic novels, but even more impressive is the number of translations it has undergone. Originally published in 1969 in French as La Disparition, the novel follows a group of friends who are trying to find their companion Anton Vowl. The novel doesn't contain a single letter E (except the four unfortunately found in his name). It has since been translated into various other languages, with a similar rule being imposed on every translator. Because E is so prevalent in many languages, that's usually the one that gets removed, but the Spanish version removes the A, Russian the O and Japanese the I.

Dr Seuss was famous for books with simple language and catchy rhyme schemes, but perhaps his most famous title was written as the result of a bet between Seuss and his publisher, Bennett Cerf. Following on from The Cat in the Hat which used 236 different words, Cerf bet Seuss that he couldn't complete one with even fewer. Green Eggs and Ham was published in 1960, with just 50 different words used in the whole text. Despite this stringent limitation, by 2001 it had become the fourth-best-selling English language children's hardcover of all time.

And for those who are curious, some of the 50 words are: a, am, and, are, be, boat, box, car, dark, do, eat, fox, goat, green, ham, here, I, if, in, let, like, may, not, on, or, rain, Sam, say, see, that, the, them, there, they, train, tree, try, will, with, would, you.

Another example of constrained writing is Peter Carey's book True History of the Kelly Gang which doesn't use a single comma. In Walter Abish's Alphabetical Africa, every word in the first chapter begins with A. In the second chapter, words beginning with both A and B are allowed, and so on.

It seems to me that the only purpose of constrained writing is as a good writing practice. For trivia and quiz junkies, it may provide some fun facts to remember!

Bhuvan Gowda on sets

I'M NOT HERE TO MAKE MONEY:

KGF CINEMATOGRAPHER BHUVAN GOWDA

A still photographer who transitioned into a cinematographer, Bhuvan speaks about his experience of working on the KGF films, his long association with Prashanth Neel, and more

A still from KGF Chapter 2

A SHARADHAA

FOUR years back, cinematographer Bhuvan Gowda might not have been a popular name, but the release of KGF changed everything. Now, four years later, he is gearing up for the release of KGF Chapter 2, which is all set to hit screens worldwide on April 14. Having started off as a still photographer, Bhuvan speaks of how KGF director Prashanth Neel shaped his career. "Even though I was just a still photographer with no previous experience as a DoP, Prashanth trusted me and pushed me to take up cinematography. He liked my framing and lighting, and told me to take the job. He taught me cinematography," says Bhuvan.

Bhuvan, who has worked with Prashanth Neel right from the latter's debut, Ugramm, is pleased about their collaborative journey. He feels this journey was a result of their like-mindedness and their matching wavelength. "He is comfortable working with me, and I understand his vision, be it the colour tone, framing, or even visualising a scene. We both began with Ugramm, which taught us a lot. Since then, I have been a constant in his directorial journey," says Bhuvan.

It's rare for a cinematographer to invest years on individual projects. Bhuvan, interestingly, has spent close to 8 years on KGF Chapters 1 and 2. "I am not here to make money. I'm here to earn a name for the work I do. If money-making was my agenda, I could have taken up all the other offers that came my way. However, I like investing time on just one film, and when that gets termed as a visual spectacle, I feel that to be an achievement. Working on two films at a time might divert my focus. I don't like the disturbance, which comes when juggling between two sets. That's why I stick to one project at a time. Living in the world of KGF 1 and 2 helped me keep the vision intact," he says.

One of the appreciated aspects about KGF is the sheer grandeur on display. As a cinematographer, how does he bring that to the big screen? "It's all because of the right kind of support from Prashanth, who had a clear vision. Equal support from the production house and the art department also helped. It is a combined job that helped us achieve this grand look you speak of," shares Bhuvan.

The sequel seems to have more fast-paced visuals like car chase and explosions. Bhuvan speaks of painstakingly building the world of Rocky Bhai, Adheera (Sanjay Dutt), and Ramika Sen (Raveena Tandon). "The success of KGF Chapter 1 allowed us to make Chapter 2 bigger and better. Even though we thought big in Chapter 1, we had to limit our execution. This was not the case with Chapter 2. Every single visual element is ten times bigger than in the first part. However, I have worked on the same cinematography pattern that was in KGF Chapter 1 to maintain the continuity, artistic feel, the distinctive light, the mood... That atmosphere has been retained in Chapter 2."

Big-ticket stars often rely a lot on visuals for brand elevation. With KGF Chapter 2 boasting some of the biggest names in Indian cinema, what kind of homework went into choreographing the shots? "I had some homework to do, especially for the Sanjay Dutt portions. We had to portray that raw look of Adheera, which had a lot to do with the surroundings. We used a lot of grey tones for this reason. There are a lot of surprise elements, which I can't reveal at this moment," shares Bhuvan.

The lighting, especially, came in for much appreciation in KGF Chapter 1. This time around, what aspect of cinematography does he think will receive maximum response? "I have made sure that my visuals will keep the audience engaged. I have kept the presentation natural, and I hope that will be the discussing point about my work in Chapter 2," he says. For someone who has been part of very few films in his career, how important is it to retain his individuality? "I don't watch other films, looking for cinematography ideas. I may end up getting influenced and adapt it into my work. In fact, again, I must credit Prashant for helping me to maintain my individuality, and refuse to get inspired by other works," says Bhuvan, adding, "I try to be updated with the latest in technology and equipment. I had used the Alexa SXT camera for KGF Chapter 1. Although the company launched three upgraded models, we went with the same model for Chapter 2 in order to carry the same mood and atmosphere."

Post KGF Chapter 2, Bhuvan's journey with Prashanth is set to continue with Salaar, starring Prabhas and Shruti Haasan. "My journey as a cinematographer so far—especially my collaborations with Prashanth, producer Vijay Kiragandur, and Yash—has been a blessing," he signs off.
